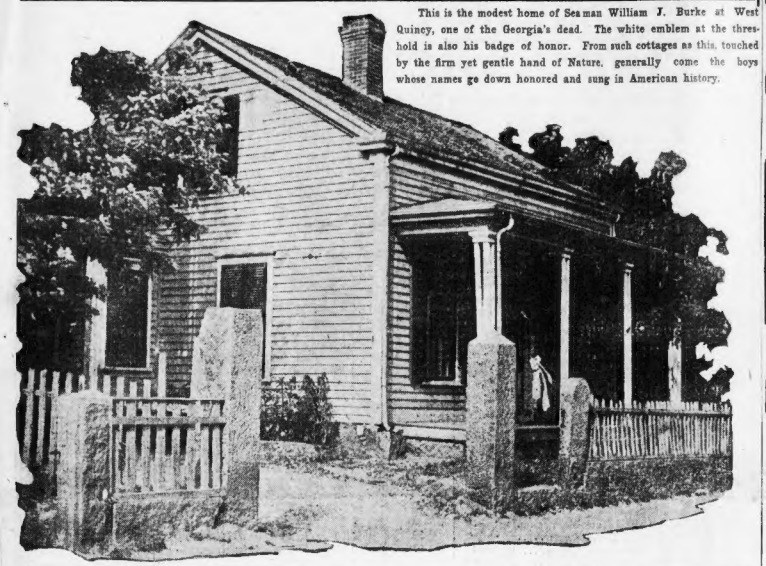
CASH CONTRIBUTIONS TO POLITICAL PARTIES

WHERE AMERICA'S HEROES ARE REARED



This is the modest home of Seaman William J. Burke at West Quincy, one of the Georgia's dead. The white emblem at the threshold is also his badge of honor. From such cottages as this, touched by the firm yet gentle hand of Nature, generally come the boys whose names go down honored and sung in American history.

25 YEARS OF PHONE "FAT"

Congressman Powers, Attorney for the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, Makes Startling Admissions at Hearing. Refuses to Say to What Parties Money Was Advanced.

The New England Telephone & Telegraph Company has for the past twenty-five years made contributions for political purposes.

This remarkable fact was brought out to-day through the admission of Congressman Samuel L. Powers, counsel for the company, at the hearing before the Highway Commissioners on the petition for a reduction of rates.

Auditor E. W. Longley, the first witness to be examined by Attorney Edmund Whitman for the petitioners, had been asked to give the data relative to such contributions, but Counsel Powers objected.

"The Commission has no right to go back into the company's books before July 1, 1906," declared the Congressman. "If you did so you would have to go back twenty-five years."

MADE CONTRIBUTIONS.

Questioned by Mr. Whitman, Counsel Powers admitted that the telephone company had made contributions for the past twenty-five years.

Auditor Longley was questioned by Counsel Whitman:

"Have any campaign contributions been made by the company since July 1, 1906?"

"I am not prepared to say."

Auditor Longley testified that free telephones were furnished to some lawyers as part of their counsel fees for working in the company's interests.

"The company always got value for work done," he added.

The auditor denied that the Boston & Maine Railroad had ever been granted reductions in rates.

"We have always paid for freight, rights of way and the transportation of our employes," he said.

"Do any weekly papers receive free telephones?" asked Attorney Whitman.

"Many in this city have telephones which are paid for, and their colums are used by the company's advertising department, which is paid for," he replied.

Express companies have no free phones or contracts, he said.

Questioned by Attorney Whitman:

Q—Are there any vouchers that are not explained in detail? A—With lawyers put in bills for retainers and other items.

Q—How do you know you are getting value for the vouchers? A—All bills are approved by the company legal counsel.

Q—Are the items used to influence legislation at the State House itemized?

Counsel Powers sprang to his feet and entered a strenuous protest against the auditor replying to this question. He

Pay Tribute To-day Over Bier of Seaman Miller

NATION HONORS GEORGIA DEAD

GEORGIA CAPTAIN LAUDS BRAVE MEN WHO BRAVED FLAME-SWEPT TURRET.

With full naval honors and with words of prayer and praise spoken by the chaplain of the battleship Georgia, Seaman George Miller, one of the martyrs of the turret disaster, is to-day laid to rest in the government cemetery of the Naval Hospital grounds in Chelsea.

The big battleship upon which nine brave boys were swept to death in powder flames, and at least a dozen more severely injured, lies in Boston Harbor to allow the men to attend the funeral and pay their tribute of respect to their comrade's memory.

VISIT HOME OF HERO DEAD.

From his former home in West Quincy at 9 o'clock to-morrow forenoon, with equal marks of the navy's esteem, the body of Seaman William J. Burke, another of the hero dead, will be carried to the Catholic Church, where funeral services will be conducted.

To-day many of the old friends of Burke went to the cottage where he lies a victim of the awful accident and comforted his relatives as best they could with words that told of his bravery.

In the meantime the report of the board that investigated the disaster is in the hands of Admiral Charles M. Thomas who is with the fleet at Provincetown. In this report are the names of men who were conspicuously brave in the face of danger fully as great as a naval battle.

HEROES ON ROLL OF HONOR.

The list of brave men—some of them dead and others ready to repeat their acts at the risk of death—will soon be before the eyes of the President of the United States, and it is expected that he will properly mark the memory of the dead and reward the living.

Here are the names of men whom the officers and others on the battleship agree were conspicuous for their bravery:

Seaman George Miller, loader of the port gun, opposite the one in which the powder ignited. By his prompt action it is believed he saved the 108 pounds of powder in his gun from ignition. He is dead.

Seaman William J. Burke, who tried to close the shutter, shutting off the flames from the ammunition room. This shutter had closed automatically, but this, it is thought, escaped the mind of the seaman in the excitement of the occasion. He is dead.

BRAVED DEATH IN TURRET.

Midshipman Gravescroft, who led the way for the men into the turret after the fire started, not knowing what might follow. He was unhurt.

Ensign W. H. Voss of New York, with handling crew in ammunition room twenty-five feet directly beneath the turret. They closed the door to the magazine and the gangway door to the handling room, and would have been drowned had the rooms been flooded as they feared. He was not hurt.

Boswain's Mate Frank Schlupp of North Andover, who also, it is believed, sacrificed his life in trying to prevent the flames from getting at the ammunition room. His condition is serious.

CAPTAIN'S PATHETIC STORY.

Commander McCrea of the Georgia, which remains in the harbor to allow the seamen to attend the funeral of George Miller this afternoon in the United States Naval cemetery at Chelsea, gave a graphic and pathetic account of the accident to-day. In his interview Captain McCrea said:

"I heard the shout 'load,' but there was no shot, and then I saw men running aft, and quickly the fire hose that is always laid out in readiness when there is firing going on, was manned. There was no delay; there was nothing to do but to pick up the hose and turn on the water.

"I rushed to the after bridge near the turret to see what was the matter. The water was already being poured in the turret, which was intensely overheated and throwing out deadly gasses. In this way the temperature was reduced so that men could go in.

"The bravery in and Midshipman Gravescroft led the way for the men up to the top of the turret with the hose. I tell you, that was a fine thing to do. There was courage. No man knew what had happened, and no man knew what danger he might be rushing into. But these men never thought of self or danger. They thought only of getting their shipmates out to safety. That's the kind of stuff. That brave act will look well on their records.

DYING, BREATHES A PRAYER.

"Then they began to bring out the men. One of the first brought out was the men in whose hands the powder log was when it flashed. It was either he or the man who stood by his side, but I believe it was the man who held the powder.

"He was laid down on top of the lower turret with a blanket under his head sent to him. I could not recognize him. His hands were burned to the bones. The flesh was gone. They were but skeletons. With the bare hands raised above his chest and the tips of the fingers bent together each other in the attitude of prayer, I could hear him saying, 'O God, O God, O God.' He could not move his lips enough to utter other words.

"I bent down and said to him, 'My dear fellow, God has heard your prayer.' He was breathing, but in short, gasps, and soon died. I know he could hear. Oh, I hope he heard me, for I know God heard him. And I wish I were a Tennyson to tell aright that dying scene. It was sublime. Those words tell it.

Goodrich Leads His Men.

"One man in that turret was not hurt, Midshipman Kimball, and I do not under-

M'GRAW FACES MOTHER OF THE MAN HE KILLED

WATCHMAN, CHARGED WITH MURDER, GOES ON THE WITNESS STAND.

Determinedly facing the mother of the man he had shot, Robert McGraw, the former watchman of the American Steam Gauge and Valve Company, charged with the murder of Benjamin Farwell, today told the Judges and the jury in the Superior Criminal Court his story of the shooting that took place in the factory on the night of April 25, 1904.

It was a dramatic scene. The watchman, when called to the stand, seemed to be laboring under excitement, but he plainly showed that he was anxious to tell the Court and the jurymen why he had shot Farwell. He knew that the mother of the man he slew sat in the rear of the court room. He knew that it was she who had followed him for three long years, finally bringing him before the court.

When he stood up to tell his story McGraw's eyes roved around the room until he saw his wife, mother, and there his gaze halted and rest returned from time to time as he told his story.

Recall Police Sergeant.

Before McGraw was called to testify in his own behalf, Police Sergeant O'Neill of Station 10 was recalled to state that a pawn ticket for a watch had been given him by Farwell's mother, and not taken from the dead man's pocket.

Attorney E. F. Benjamin's opening address to the jury was very brief.

25,000 WEAVERS IN MILL STRIKE THREAT

demands of the weavers of this city for a standard length for print cloth out of 48 yards is granted before July 30, 25,000 mill operatives in nearly 50 cotton mills in this city will strike. The decision was reached at a meeting held last evening. It was also further voted to call a special general meeting July 25 to take a vote for a general strike Monday, July 29.

The cotton manufacturers are willing to meet the weavers on their demand with a proposition for a double standard length. Their proposition being a standard of 47 1-2 yards for the slower, wider looms and 50 yards for the narrower, fast looms. The weavers say "No" to the advancement as they want one standard that will not only apply to print cloth, but to all other rolls of cloth.

At present weavers weave rolls which run up as high as 52 yards long and no standard being fixed this is to the advantage of the manufacturer. The question of a standard is of the gravest importance. It is from the standard that wages, margin of profit and nearly all questions are figured. The question of standard has been the bone of contention between employers and employes for years.

With the standard basis of 46 yards the employe would be able to figure extra pay for odd lengths. With the manufacturers' idea of a double standard, rolls other than print cloth would be without a standard, and complications would inevitably follow.

The employes' contention for a double standard is on account of the machinery in some of the new mills, which is more up to date and faster than either mills machinery. They therefore contend that it would be unfair to have a single standard with different machinery.

HEAT AND HUMIDITY SMOTHERING BOSTON

It is mighty hot to-day, and it is going to stay hot until to-night, and then there are to come and cool the air. This was the assurance given out to-day by the Weather Man.

Yesterday was the hottest day of the year, but it will be the humidity that will cause the great suffering to-day to be repeated. To-day it registers as cool, or 18 per cent. more than it ought to be. The air is filled with moisture. The sun is down through this, makes the air a blanket of dead weight lying over the people of Boston, shutting out the pure, cool upper air.

The mercury started in at 70 at midnight and went up degree by degree until at 8 o'clock a. m. it stood at 78.

At 9 o'clock it had jumped three degrees, registering 81.

Boston suffered terribly during the night, trying to an agony hour to-day the heat record of the past twenty-four hours registered one death and twelve prostrations. Three persons were caused by the heat and tried to kill themselves in this fashion.

CHEAP POWDER BLAMED FOR GEORGIA DISASTER

stand how he could have escaped. He stayed in the tunnel and helped take out the men. He, too, showed grit after the shock he had had.

"Lieutenant Goodrich set an example to his men that none but a courageous officer could set when he plunged right into the flame and going to load his gun in the air and to safety," said his father, Rear Admiral Goodrich, "and that was a fine thing, and it was such officers that made a great navy. His example will not be forgotten.

"After he got on to the flivver he came down to the dock and threw himself aboard. If our launch had not been nearly on its return from examination of the target he would soon have drowned.

"Probably one little act, or rather one great act, of one of the men prevented a far greater disaster. I don't know his name. He's dead. He died saving other lives. He and one other stood by the gun that had just been loaded. The last powder bag that had been given us was pourtied a little from the gun.

"When he saw the flash, instead of dashing for the ladder to save himself, he crowded home the charge in the gun and with the help of the other man got the gun closed tight before the flame reached the bag.

"If the flame had touched that bag there would have been an awful explosion, for the powder was confined in the gun and would not have flashed as the other did, but would have exploded. Not a man in the turret would have been left alive, whatever other damage might have been done. That man gave his life for the others.

Stood by Gun in Peril.

"I am told President Roosevelt has inquired about the man that gave his life in closing the shutter from the ammunition room to save the ship from blowing up. It would be very wrong to have a story like that go out, because I cannot find that there is any foundation for it, or need for a man to make any attempt to do anything of the sort. Of course, if a man had done anything like that, even though the shutter were closed, it would have been a heroic thing. But if the President wants a heroism, let him look up that gallant man who stood by his gun to save the fleet.

LEADS CHARMED LIFE.

Midshipman Kimball, who escaped practically unhurt—the only man in the turret so fortunate—bears a charmed life, according to his friends. This is the story a fellow-midshipman told about him:

"Narrow escape! Why he has had more narrow escapes from death than any man of his years in the navy. When a lad up at Brattleboro, Vt., he was saved from drowning after going down the third time. Later he was in an elevator accident—got caught somehow between a beam and the elevator, but managed somehow to get out of it, and he has been in any number of accidents since then.

"An effort has been made to discover the man in the after turret who lit a skid after the explosion threw himself at the automatic door leading to the handling room and magazine and closed it tight. It is thought that if such a thing was done, which is not at all improbable, as certainly both sparks and flame shot into the handling room through this door, the man who did it was boatswain's mate Frank Schlapp, who is still unable to say anything regarding the accident owing to his facial injuries. He belonged to North Andover and is among those at the hospital who are expected to recover.

President Roosevelt is anxious to know all about this case of the accident and if such a thing was done and Schlapp did it he will be recommended for a medal.

At the time of what was called the 'powder scandal' in Pompton Lakes, Dr. J. E. Bloomer, one of the most famous experts on explosives in the world, said of A. W. Rekker, a magazine writer, who lives in Pompton Lakes:

Cheap Cotton to Blame.

"If cheap cotton has been used out there at those powder works there is nothing when any part of the product may explode by spontaneous combustion. Most of the smokeless powder made there is used by the United States government and quantities of it are stacked together. One infected grain may serve as a cap to set off hundreds of pounds. If it can be proved that cheap cotton has been used in the making of the powder sent to the Government every bit of it should be destroyed at once. The work of destruction should reach back to a time when there was no suspicion attaching."

Two theories have been advanced to explain the disaster to the battleship Georgia. One is that a cinder or a clot of hot soot fell on one of the decks of powder which were being brought up for use in the gun in the after turret. The other is that the explosion was caused by spontaneous combustion.

Alfred Nobel, the discoverer of dynamite, scoffs at both theories and declares or clot of soot.

Report From Hospital.

The following bulletin was issued to-day by Chief Surgeon Bucher, of the United States Naval Hospital, Chelsea, giving the condition of the victims of the explosion on the battleship:

"Mead very serious of all. Cruse had several sinking spells during the night; were rallied with stimulants. Very critical still. Showing remarkable endurance. Bush, Thomas, Gilbert, Kalek and Pope extremely critical, but hopeful. Holding nourishment and responding to stimulants. Schlapp, Rhodehaver and Tagland doing very well.

"Dich and Hensell no var recovered as to be dropped from the reports.

M'GRAW TELLS HIS OWN STORY OF SHOOTING

Declares That Farwell Fired Twice at Him and Describes the Struggle.

MAINTAINS HIS INNOCENCE

When McGraw was called to the witness stand early to-day, he wore a neat suit of dark clothes, a white shirt and a dark figured black tie. He appeared very anxious to tell his story.

Seated by the main door in the last seat in the court room was Mrs. Farwell, the mother of the slain man. She sat with folded arms, and time and time she would look searchingly at McGraw. He was confident of her scrutiny and calmly returned her gaze.

Attorney Benjamin asked McGraw to tell the jury in his own words and his own way of everything connected with the shooting of Farwell on April 25, 1904. McGraw said:

Hears of Prowling Man.

"I was employed as fireman and watchman by the American Steam Gauge and Valve Company, Benjamin F. Farwell was employed by the same company. We were good friends. On April 25, that year, I found myself on duty in the night of the factory on Camden street. They fired at me. It was a revolver. I felt a sting.

"In the morning I reported the affair to Superintendent Brown. He told me to call Bob, every one around here must be honest. Hereafter, you fasten yourself up in the building. Close every outside door and gate. Even people employed here have no right to come in during the night. You watch everything and report to me.'

"I found no trouble until the evening of April 23. I came to work at 5 o'clock. The shipping clerk told me to watch the back yard carefully, for he had seen a colored man prowling around that night. I did the afternoon. I went up and spoke to the superintendent about it. The shipping clerk was called to the office. He told the superintendent the same story. I found nothing, however, that night.

Farwell Asked Questions.

"On Sunday afternoon, April 24, I went to work early, and Farwell was in the engine room. Some work had called him there. He asked me how I managed to keep watch on the place during the night without a light. I told him I knew every valve in the works, and every door and stairway, and, besides, that I didn't want to make myself a target for thieves.

"Farwell asked me how I watched the little back door, and how I watched the back yard. I told him just how I made my rounds. He asked me where I hung out in my spare moments. I told him I didn't have much time to spare, but what little time I had I rested in the boudoir. There was the most likelihood of fire.

"On Monday, April 25, in the afternoon, I met Farwell in the boiler room. We both went out to the engine room for our pay. I went back and fixed my fires and got ready for my work. I locked all the doors and saw that everything was safe.

Nails Up the Door.

"We had a fierce dog out there that gave an alarm when any intruder came in the works. About 11 o'clock that night the dog began to bark loudly. I went up to the third floor and through the stock room and to the front door. I found the small outside door open. I was sure that I had closed it early in the evening. I took a few nails, a hammer, the rain-coat and the watchman told me the door was open after 9 o'clock hours. I made up my mind that the colored fellow seen a few days before the shipping clerk might be in the works.

"I nailed up the outside door and continued my search of the place. The dog followed at my heels, barking. I knew something was wrong. I went through the shipping department, but found nothing there. It was then 11:45.

"When I stopped outside the superintendent's office the dog began running to and fro toward the engine room. I followed the dog to the engine room. I had a hammer in my hands, with which I had nailed up the back door.

Saw a Man Crouching.

"As I entered the engine room I saw a figure of a man crouching like this here McGraw imitated the figure of a man he was describing). I asked 'Who is there?' Then the man drew himself up and fired directly at me.

"The bullet whizzed past my head. I ducked back behind a set of scales. Just as I heard the click of a revolver—the man was getting ready for a second shot—I fired again. Again he missed me. I ducked quickly. Then I was and nippled with the man. I brought the hammer down on his head, but not much force. I was so close I couldn't strike hard.

SANG A HYMN DYING IN RUINS

LONDON, Ont., July 18.—Eight lives is the toll of yesterday's calamity, when Crystal Hall collapsed and buried a score of persons in its ruins.

The missing have been accounted for to-night. One man, whose identity cannot be learned, is still buried under twenty feet of debris, and there is little hope of reaching the body for a day or two.

Dr. Stevenson, who with many other physicians, was close to the scene of the disaster all night, was down among the ruins at the rear of the building this morning when he heard a voice, apparently that of a young man, singing "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

ACCUSES THE 'PHONE TRUST

Believing that in charging him 35 cents a month additional for attaching his telephone wires to the poles of the Suburban Gas & Electric Company the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company has worked a new wrinkle in corporation practice, D. H. Maynard, who conducts a summer boarding house on Woodside avenue, Winthrop, is seriously considering bringing the matter to the proper authorities.

Mr. Maynard says he has had many troubles with the telephone corporation. Last year it prevailed upon him to set up a phone, one of three for which a guarantee of $2 a month is exacted. He claims that only half his bills sent to him for other charges not incurred.

LIVES LOST IN RIVER FLOOD

At McComis, Mrs. Mary Ballard's house was swept away and her three children are known to have perished. At least twenty railroad and highway bridges have been carried out, railroad traffic is tied up and all telegraph and telephone wires are down between Parsons and Elkins.

declared that the company's legislative expenses on the floor at the State House as the law requires. Auditor Loggie said that "special accounts" included general expenses, salaries, wages, legal expenses and "other items."

John H. Lee as Counsel.

Mr. Whitmore continued:

Q—Is John H. Lee on your books as counsel. A—Yes.

Q—How is he employed? A—As general adviser for the company.

Q—Does he take care of the vouchers? A—Yes.

Q—Has he made any since July 1, 1905? A—I am not prepared to say.

Q—Who are the company's advisers, beside Powers, Hall and Lee?

To others Mr. Loggie answering this question concerning our counsel, said Mr. Powers. I dont think it is fair that the names of the telephone company's counsel be published in the newspapers. I am perfectly willing to give the highway commission a list of our legal advisers, but don't want them published in the papers.

MACFARLAND READY TO BEGIN PROBE OF TELEPHONE GRAFT

Preparations for a thorough investigation of telephone graft, made known through the remarkable confession of George H. Fletcher, ex-president of construction of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, which was submitted the existence of a "phantom labor bureau," were begun to-day by Attorney Granville S. MacFarland.

Superintendent Dwyer's confession came before the Highway Commission, which is investigating telephone charges. It was admitted in the confession that men were employed on the payrolls who rendered no full equivalent for the salary they received from the company.

District Attorney John B. Moran decided that there was criminal intent somewhere and secured the services of Mr. MacFarland to probe the matter, because of the fact that the District Attorney is on his vacation, as is one of his assistants, and the others are occupied with important cases.

"The case will be thoroughly investigated, declared the District Attorney, and if the evidence warrants it, prosecutions will follow.

To Grand Jury Next Month.

Mr. McFarland plans to have the evidence in shape to present to the Grand Jury in August.

The Highway Commission is taking further evidence to-day.

Action is taken by the district attorney under Chapter 520, Section 1, Laws of 1903. The law says:

No railroad, street railway, electric light, gas, telegraph, telephone, water or steamboat company shall, directly or indirectly, suspend, suspend or discharge any persons seeking employment or employed at the request of the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, or any member or member-elect of the Council or of the General Court, justice of the Supreme Court, judge of the state or city officials.

It has been known for several years that such a phantom labor bureau as admitted by Mr. Dwyer had been in existence for several years, in fact Thomas W. Vinson, representing the Harvard Improvement Association told at the hearing from his knowledge how one of the men had eleven laborers were employed, they had over them as superiors, one foreman, seventy-three sub-foremen, eleven watchmen, twenty-three inspectors and one timekeeper.

The underground construction department employed various men who did not give a full equivalent for their wages in work, and who obtained their employment through political or other influence. Confessed the head of this department, Mr. Dwyer.

To Trace "influential" Men.

It is Mr. MacFarland's purpose to find out who these men of "political or other influence" were who could send a man to the construction gang and have his name put on the payrolls, even when it was known that there was little or no work for him to do.

Mr. MacFarland, acting as representative of the District Attorney, will summon witnesses and compel them to answer certain questions. The politicians who have worked the graft for some time, although it is declared that they left the first of the year, will be called upon to testify.

Mr. Moran says that if men were employed by officials of the telephone company with the understanding that they were not to work, though they would receive weekly wages, that was a conspiracy to defraud the corporation. It is Mr. Moran's contention that this is criminal.

To give away the corporation's money fraudulently is crimes in the District Attorney's opinion. Furthermore, no official has the right to compel work of politicians to pay money where it is known that no service was to be rendered.

Who the men were who were carried on the payrolls under such conditions, and why they were placed there, are two of the questions which Mr. MacFarland's investigation proposes to have answered.

SOUTH BOSTON LAWLESSNESS MUST CEASE

—JUDGE FALLON

Judge Fallon in the South Boston Police Court to-day declared that there is lawlessness in South Boston, and that it must be stopped. In finding John W. Canavan guilty of attacking a South Boston strikebreaker, Judge Fallon said:

"Lawlessness in South Boston must be stopped. It is not right that a man who seek employment should have to work under constant police protection to save themselves from injury."

Canavan is employed by the Metropolitan Coal Company. He is not a member of any labor union. He is forty-two years old.

The complainant, Frederick L. Moody, a non-union teamster, employed by A. L. Flanders & Company, testified that Canavan stopped his four-horse team and hurled a stick of wood at him, striking him in the chest.

Canavan, in his own defense, declared that he was not the one. He testified that he had witnessed the stick-throwing, but was falsely accused, he said, by A. L. Flanders, and was arrested at the instigation of the latter. The defendant lives at No. 233 Third street, South Boston, is married and has three children. Moody, his accuser, lives at No. 76 Preble street.

HISSEN GETS NEW PLEDGES OF SUPPORT

Independence League Candidate for Governor Visits Holyoke.

URGED TO STAY IN FIGHT

Special to the Boston American.

HOLYOKE, July 18.—Thomas L. Hisgen, the popular candidate for the Independence League nomination for Governor, spent yesterday in this city with C. F. Powers, the executive secretary of the Independence League of Massachusetts. They called on leading members of the league in this city and went over the political situation.

Mr. Hisgen found considerable encouragement for his candidacy. He was urged to stay in the fight till the convention made its choice. The Holyoke leaders pledged him their support to the finish.

A great deal of interest has been aroused here in the banquet to be held in Springfield on July 24. It is expected Holyoke will send a big delegation.

As a result of Mr. Hisgen's speech before the Central Labor Union last Sunday, the union has voted to endorse the sale of Independent Oil against Standard Oil products.

To-day Mr. Hisgen and Mr. Power went over to Chicopee and Westfield to call on a number of Independence League workers in those places.

HUBBARD NEARLY RUN DOWN BY TUG

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Captain Hubbard, in command of the battleship Minnesota, narrowly escaped the same fate in Hampton Roads that drowned six of the midshipmen and five of his sailors in that harbor on the night of June 11. He reports to the navy department that while proceeding at night from shore in his launch to rejoin his ship he was almost run down by a tug and poorly lighted tow.

RENEW FIGHT FOR HOME RULE, SAYS IRISH LEADER

"FOSTER HOSTILE PUBLIC OPINION AGAINST ENGLAND," APPEAL LEADERS.

NEW YORK, July 18.—In a call to rally the people to the aid and support of the Irish cause made necessary at this time by the rejection of the Irish Council Bill, the national committee of the United Irish League of America last night issued a stirring and vigorous address to the friends of Ireland in this country. "Foster hostile public opinion against England's position," says the report.

The committee met at the Hoffman House. National President Michael J. Ryan of Philadelphia presided and twenty-six States were represented.

T. B. Fitzpatrick of Boston, national treasurer, in his report stated that $52,000 had been raised and sent to Ireland since the national convention in Philadelphia last October.

The Boston members of the national committee in attendance were T. B. Fitzpatrick, national treasurer; John O'Callaghan, national secretary; Louis O'Reilly, N. H. Urehan and Michael Maynes. Among others who took part were Bart Ford, editor of the Irish World, and Patrick Egan, minister to Chili.

By direction of the national committee President Ryan sent a telegram to John Redmond expressing the confidence of the United Irish League of America in him and his leadership and the earnest hope for the successful issue of the coming battle.

The address issued by the national officers and committee follows:

Appeal to Friends of Erin.

"To the Friends of Ireland in America:

"The unanimous rejection of the Irish council bill by the delegates of the Irish people, assembled a few weeks ago in the largest and most representative convention ever held in Ireland, has opened a new phase of the Irish question.

"The council bill offered to Ireland was not in any sense a generous gift, but the action could with self-respect accept as even a genuine instalment of that national self-government which she has always maintained was her inalienable right. By attempting to reimpose by its constituting the nominated element in the council body which had been dissolved by the local government act of 1898, and by giving the viceroy the absolute power of veto, as well as in its faulty financial and other provisions, the bill was wholly unworthy of acceptance and could only be regarded in the nature of an insult to the Irish people as a proposed confession of their demands.

"Under these circumstances the nation's representatives promptly and fearlessly declared their determination to wage the war over again rather than submit to accepting such a humiliating proposal. The duty is cast anew upon us of the United Irish League of America, which from the beginning acted as auxiliaries to the movement in Ireland, to do our part in strengthening the hands of the Irish leader, John E. Redmond, his colleagues and the Irish national organization in the battle that lies ahead.

"Every influence that Irish friends in America can exert in the press, platforms, and in every other respect should be used to make plain to England that her perfidious course will find no encouragement or support among the friends of liberty in America.

Call for United Work.

"In addition, prompt and effective measures should be taken to extend to the Irish party all the financial support which the grave conditions of affairs in Ireland now imperatively demand. The people of Ireland have spoken unanimously, and their decision having been indorsed by the race everywhere, it is now clearly the duty of Ireland's friends to help in the fight until it is ended.

"Existing branches of the United Irish League of America will, we trust, immediately take active measures to create and foster a public sentiment hostile to England's position, and as embarrassing as they can possibly make it for her. New branches should be established wherever Ireland's friends are to be found throughout the country, and sufficient moral and financial support be provided in the near future to make it possible for the people of Ireland to enforce their just and long-promised demands.

"The executive committee of the United Irish League of America appeals to every friend of Irish liberty to help in this work, and by doing all that is in it bringing it to a speedy and triumphant conclusion."

BANKRUPT IS HELD AS FORGER

Early to-day Police Inspectors Wolf and Rooney arrested Hyman Abrahms, residing at No. 6 Columbia road, Maplewood, and doing business at No. 180 North street, charged with passing forged notes bearing the name of Lewis Cohen of No. 54 Prince street, amounting to $316.

It is charged that Abrahms went into bankruptcy lately, the notes were discovered in the bankrupt's effects, showing that on April 1 he gave a three-months' note to Lewis Rosenberg of No. 40 Salem street, with the name of Cohan signed to it, and on April 10 that he gave another note to Rosenberg.

WEDS SOUTHERN MAN.

AUBURN, Me., July 18.—Miss Grace Pauline Osgood of Auburn and Lewis E. Smith, Jr., of New Orleans were married at high noon yesterday. Mrs. Smith is one of the oldest families in the State, while Mr. Smith is a wealthy plantation owner in the South.

BOSTON ELKS APPLAUDED IN BIG PARADE

Over 25,000 Men March in Quaker City Convention Pageant.

PHILADELPHIA, July 18.—Never was there such a parade in Philadelphia or any other city as that which took place here to-day. Elks, twenty-five thousand of them, and then many thousand more for counting was impossible—swung along the line of march for hours. Elks danced, Elks jolly, Elks shouting, dancing, prancing, swinging, followed the cards through a human-walled canyon.

"Hello Bill Rear.

There was on continuous roar of "Hello-o-o Bill," with the last word cracked off short like a bark. The delegations from different cities, particularly Boston, as they passed found friends lined along the curb in every block who applauded them. The pageant was so grand that it could not fail to impress upon the multitude of spectators the grandeur of strength, the brotherly feeling and the good fellowship pervading in the lodge.

Members of Boston Lodge No. 10 are confident that they will carry off the honors in the parade. The Quaker Elks make a fine showing.

The Bostonians are jubilant to-day over the election as Grand Treasurer of the order of Edward E. Leach of New York, a former resident of the North End. Hereto, where he was born and lived many years previous to moving to New York.

The election of John M. Tenny, the only Haverhill ball player, as Grand Exalted Ruler, is also pleasing to all the New England Elks.

Congratulate Linnehan.

John W. Linnehan, who was deeply interested in the election of John D. Shea of Hartford to the position of Grand Esteemed Leading Knight, is receiving congratulations over Shea's election, he defeating Robert D. Green of Brooklyn Lodge for the position.

A laughable event happened when Thomas H. Howe, who engaged an auto for a ride through the parks, met James A. Gallivan and John F. Feeney, on their arrival. Tom offered them the auto to carry them to the hotel. But autos are scarce. Tom had waited six hours previous to Gallivan's arrival before he got one. Gallivan and Feeney decided that they would keep it themselves and Tom is still waiting for his ride.

ITALY AIDS OUIDA.

ROME, July 18.—The Minister of Public Instruction, Signor Bava, has sent a large contribution to the widow of Louise Ouidas, which she has accepted most gratefully.

LEFT A MILLION.

The will of William Amory, of Braintree, allowed yesterday by Judge Flint in the Norfolk Probate Court, at Dedham, disposed of an estate inventoried at $1,000,000, every cent of which is kept within the family.

GOOD ANGLING IN MAINE.

LAKE AUBURN, Me., July 18.—Fish are being taken steadily from the lake and a large number of Massachusetts anglers are encamped here. Mrs. F. M. Curtis, of Auburn, hooked a four and a half-pounder yesterday.

$3,000 BEQUEST TO CHURCH.

FARMINGTON, Me., July 18.—The First Congregational Church has received $3,000 from the estate of Mrs. Carrie F. Butler Thwing, given by Charles F. Thwing, executor.

Friday Three-Hour Sales

SOME SEVERE TESTS. The "Clock Sales" have withstood many tests. They have withstood the test of local competition for six years. They have successfully met the test of slow markets and dull times. They have also endured the test of New England weather in all seasons, perhaps the severest test of all. A steady increase has characterized them from the day they started. Has this merely happened so? Ask the thousands who patronize them—if you do not.

FAIR MAID SAVED FROM FIRE 1,130 TIMES

Eighteen-year-old Kittie Butler of Chelsea and her death-defying plunge into net at Wonderland Fire and Flames Show.

"I Don't Get Scared," Declares Heroine of Daily Leaps Into Fire Net at Wonderland Park.

How would you like to have your life saved 1,130 times if you were a girl?

Eighteen-year-old Kittie Butler of Chelsea, a light-haired, blue-eyed maid, has been saved from a fiery death at the Fire and Flames Show in Wonderland that number of times, as near as she can count.

And she is still being rescued several times a day.

Talk about the nine lives of a cat. Miss Butler has had enough lives preserved to her to stock a whole colony of cats.

For she is the girl who jumps into the life net at the Fire and Flames show and is saved, amid the cheers of the multitude.

If you have been to the Fire and Flames —and you've missed several thrills if you have not—you will recall the scene when the fire is at its height. Men appear at the flaming windows. Firemen spread a life net. The men jump into it and are saved.

See! There's a girl at that window. She is a fair-haired slip of a girl, who stretches out her arms in pitiful entreaty. She screams for aid, such screams as only a girl in dire terror can give. It seems so real that you get a trifle nervous. You fear lest the Fire Show may have been overdone a bit and that a real tragedy may ensue.

But the firemen rush to a point beneath the high window. They spread the net. They brace themselves for the shock. A battalion chief signals for the girl to jump.

With a cry she the girl launches herself from the window. Down, down she comes, plump into the net. She undoes out of the net and is grasped by her delighted mates.

Again Kitty Butler's life has been saved. General Manager W. C. Manning of the Fire Show estimates that Miss Butler's life has been saved 1,130 times up to date. It was saved 780 times last year, once at every performance of the Fire Show. This year has added 350 more rescues so far. And she is only eighteen.

The heroine of this multiple salvation is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Butler of No. 155 Central avenue, Chelsea. She is eighteen years old, and has one sister and seven brothers. She lives at home, and is just like any other healthy, hearty girl—only she will have her life saved.

"How do I jump into the net," Miss Butler repeated in answer to a question. "Why, it's not hard. I just stand on the edge of the window till I get the signal from the chief. Then I jump down into the net. I put my feet out when I jump and throw my hands up. Then I just land in the net sitting down. It's as though I stood up in bed and gave a little jump and sat down.

"No, I don't get scared. I know I'm going to land in the net. I don't think about that, for that matter. When I get the signal I jump, and there you are.

"The first rush of took my breath away a bit at first, but it's once enough now. Only you have to be careful not to slip when you start to jump. Last year I slipped once. The windowsill on which I stood was wet. As I started my foot went from under me. I knew I couldn't jump as usual and land sitting down in the net. I didn't want to land on my head. So I turned over in the air and managed to hit the net sitting down, as usual.

"I happened to come up here last year and got a chance to take part in the Fire and Flames show. Mr. Manning let us girls practice at net jumping. I got the act finally."

Just then someone called.

"I must go on now," said Miss Butler. And away she ran to have her young life saved again.

STATE AGENCY TO BE RAIDED

LEWISTON, Me., July 18.—A sensation was caused here yesterday when it was found that a Sturgis deputy was on guard at the liquor agency all day taking down the names of purchasers and the quantity of liquors they purchased. It is believed he was gathering evidence and that as a result the agency which is a State institution will be raided, while the deputy watched over 200 women were among the customers and many men prominent in the business and social life of the city were found to patronize the place.

When Mayor Morey learned of the deputy's presence at the agency he became much exercised and expressed his opinion freely, he deeply deplored such tactics, and said that the agency was being conducted in a strictly legal manner.

EDDY HEARING IS POSTPONED BY AGREEMENT

CONCORD, N. H., July 18.—After a conference covering twelve hours, with but a brief period for lunch and dinner, counsel for all parties interested in the Eddy case at 10 o'clock last night agreed that Monday, July 29, at 11 o'clock, depositions will be taken. The conference was the culmination of the fight over one of the most important questions from the standpoint of Mrs. Eddy and her associates. Late in May counsel for the "next friends" caused notices to be served upon the defendants in the case that they would take depositions July 1 before City Solicitor Edmund S. Cook of this city, as magistrate. At the appointed time an adjournment was secured by agreement of counsel. This has been repeated from time to time until to-day.

General Frank S. Streeter of Concord, who represents Mrs. Eddy personally in the case, has strenuously opposed the taking of depositions in the manner proposed. His opposition has not come on account of any objections which he has to the depositions as such. On the contrary, he courts inquiry in all legitimate ways in which the present condition of Mrs. Eddy and the conduct of her advisers whose acts are attacked in the bill in equity brought by the next friends. His objections have lain mainly in the alleged interior motives of parties connected with the next friends' cause.

TELEGRAPHERS STRIKE CANNOT BE AVERTED

PRESIDENT SMALL DECLARES INSOLENCE OF COMPANIES BARRED HOPE OF SETTLEMENT.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—At the end of a week, unless all signs fail, the telegraphers will be called out in the Eastern cities.

"All peace negotiations are at an end," said President Small, of the telegraphers. "There is but one thing left to do."

Mr. Small said that he would leave for Chicago at once, and that the heads of the unions in certain of the Eastern cities had been summoned to meet him there next Friday.

His conference, he intimated, was not to discuss the advisability of ordering an extension of the strike, but to arrange plans for the move.

Although Mr. Small would not say that definite action would be taken, his words left it clear that the union leaders saw nothing left for them but the declaring of a fight to the finish.

"Commissioner Neill's mission to San Francisco ended in utter failure," he said. "Officials of the company were arrogant in their attitude and about all that they would agree to was that some of the strikers would be given their old places. They refused to take back men who have taken a prominent part in the union and refused to treat with a committee from the union or with Mr. Neill as intermediary between the companies and the union.

"We are prepared to meet the companies more than half way, but have met with insolent rejection of every overture."

EX-PRIEST HELD AS THIEF.

CINCINNATI, O., July 18.—John McKeown, aged 54, at one time a priest in Holyoke, Mass., but ex-communicated, is in jail here on the charge of petty larceny. Clue to his identity is known.

LITTLE GIRL'S SCREAMS FOIL A KIDNAPPER

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 18.—The police are today hunting for the unknown man who, promising seven-year-old Esther O'Brien of No. 44 Central street, a lot of candy and nice things, tried to kidnap her in front of her home last night.

The unsuspected little girl started off with the man, but became startled before they had gone far and started to return. He made an effort to hold her, but the child began to cry and, fearing that her screams would attract attention, he allowed her to go.

Esther's five-year-old brother James, with whom she had been playing, went into the house and notified his mother that the little girl was going away with a stranger. The excited woman rushed from the kitchen where she had been working and started in pursuit. Seeing that he was chased, the stranger darted down a side street and disappeared. No clue to his identity is known.

CUNNINGHAM NOW FREED BY HEROIC WIFE

Final Decree of Divorce Permits Him to Give Name to Her Rival's Children.

ONE WOMAN'S SACRIFICE.

Suing that her husband's two children by another woman might be legitimatized and the husband given the full right to marry his new love, Mrs. Isabella S. Cunningham, wife of Joseph T. Cunningham, formerly of Boston, has been granted a final decree of divorce in Brooklyn. Cunningham is now free to marry Miss Elizabeth Dempsey, daughter of a prominent Boston politician, and legally give his name to their children, born out of wedlock.

The announcement in the BOSTON AMERICAN several days ago that the Cunninghams, who are well-known in this city, figured in divorce proceedings in which the name of another well-known Boston family was involved, created a sensation. The facts in the case came to light when Robert W. May, counsel for the wife, moved before Supreme Court Justice Scudder, in Brooklyn, to make absolute the interlocutory decree granted by Justice Crane three months ago.

An arrest for non-support, a horse-whipping administered to the Dempsey woman by the angry wife, and a sacrifice suit that two children might be set aright in the world, led up to the final granting of the divorce yesterday.

Wife Horsewhipped Rival.

Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham were married in the Hotel Oxford, Boston, in 1894. Both are of prominent New England families. The husband had been a member of the Massachusetts Democratic State Committee, and was an associate of the late James Benjamin F. Wells and P. J. Daly. He was the proprietor of several hotels and wealthy. Mrs. Cunningham also was wealthy.

Soon dissensions developed, and Mr. Cunningham, according to the testimony in court, left his wife. Six years ago she had him arrested in New York and incarcerated for twenty hours on the charge of failing to support her.

One day three years ago Mrs. Cunningham met Miss Lizzie Dempsey, daughter of a prominent Boston politician, at Fulton street, in Brooklyn, and slashed her with a dog whip.

Made Husband Promise.

Mrs. Cunningham charged in her suit for divorce that her husband was living in a pretty Queen Anne cottage at No. 5017 Fifteenth avenue, Borough Park, with Miss Dempsey, whom he represented to be his wife, and said the neighbors all understood they were married. There are two pretty little girls in the house, and it is out of regard for these innocent babes, Mrs. Cunningham says she determined to apply to the divorce court.

"I first exacted from Mr. Cunningham a promise that he would marry Lizzie Dempsey for the children's sake," said Mrs. Cunningham, in her home, No. 60 Clifton place, Brooklyn. "Cunningham broke my heart, and for years I could not think of the changed condition of affairs without distress. But I have come to love the elder girl, who is sweet and pretty, and comes to stop with me weeks at a time. She calls me Aunt Belle."

Divorcee to Remarry.

"And so I came to regard it my duty to release Mr. Cunningham and leave him free to marry this woman, who, of course, I cannot help hating. But it is all for the best. I have offered to make Dorothy, the elder child, who is nearly seven, my heir, if she is taught to love me. I also am fond of Katherine, the younger, who is five.

"Sometimes I have met Mr. Cunningham. He called on me four years ago and I told him I was very lonely in this big house. Some time afterward he brought the little girl to see me. I forgave him for the sake of the child.

"Mr. Cunningham did not defend the suit for divorce.

"Since I have made up my mind to the step I have been looking at life differently and have considered the proposition of remarriage. In fact, I expect to marry Boynton Vanbeever, son of the Confederate general, Ferdinand Vanbeever, who was Supreme Court judge in Ohio. Mr. Vanbeever is living in New York. So, you see, we will all be happy yet, on account of this mutual arrangement. Miss Dempsey gets a husband, the two children are set right before the world, and I may look forward to a really congenial life of matrimony."

Husband's Income Large.

Mr. Cunningham, who is forty-two, is manager of the National Electric Company, with offices in Boston, New York and Philadelphia. His New York offices are at 111 Broadway. In her suit Mrs. Cunningham declared that he has a salary of $15,000 a year. Mrs. Cunningham is forty, vivacious and attractive, and Miss Dempsey is thirty-six and very pretty.

HALSEY MUST STAND TRIAL

By Boston American Leased Wire.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—Theodore V. Halsey has been forced to plead to all the eleven indictments filed against him, and his first trial has been set for Monday, July 29.

Judge Dunne did all this yesterday in the face of Halsey's objections and requests for delay. The indicted handy man of the telephone monopoly did not want to plead. He begged for more time. Two lawyers talked for him, but they talked in vain, so he stood and entered eleven pleas of "not guilty," all in the face of Abe Ruef, who sat on one side of the court room, and of Eugene E. Schmitz, who sat at the other.

Abe Ruef was up for sentence, but his attorney asked that sentence go over for one week. The prosecution agreed, and the order for postponement was made. It will be made when Judge Dunne said he would make it, two weeks instead of one. The demurrer in Halsey's case was overruled.

FEARS FOR MISSING BOY.

NORTH ATTLEBORO, July 18.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Merrill of Cottage street, Woonsocket Falls, are worried over the disappearance of their fourteen-year-old son Arthur. The lad left home Tuesday morning, and failed to return up to today. His father thinks the lad went to the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Merrill, at Lynn.

KIDNEY TROUBLE Is a deceptive disease—thousands have it and don't know it. If you want quick results you can make no mistake by using Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy. At druggists in fifty cent and dollar sizes. Sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney trouble.

PITY FOR CHILDREN PROMPTS SACRIFICE

Former Mrs. Joseph Cunningham and woman and little ones to whom she gives her husband.

This woman and her two winsome children will now get a name, thanks to another woman's generosity.

Mrs. Cunningham not only gives all to woman she once hated but wants to adopt one of the children.

CAR CRASHES THROUGH SOUTH STATION GATES

The largest cigar stand in the South Terminal Station was badly wrecked early to-day when a freight car being backed into the train shed on track No. 16 got beyond control of the crew having it in charge, crashed through the bumper, then through the heavy iron gates and into the cigar booth.

The entire side of the booth was carried away by the heavy car. The damage is reckoned at several hundreds of dollars. No one was injured owing to the early hour. The car came with such force it traveled twenty-five feet further than it should have. The impact was so great that the entire booth was shoved two feet from its foundations.

After midnight the train-shed of the South Terminal is used for transferring freight from the Boston & Maine railroad via the Union Freight railroad to the New Haven or the Boston & Albany. This car had been received from the Union Freight railroad, and at the time it got beyond control of a New Haven crew.

1,060,067 DEAD BY PLAGUE IN 6 MONTHS

LONDON, July 18.—Returns of deaths from the plague in India show the appalling total of 1,060,067 for the six months ending June 30. The total for the six months of 1907 already surpasses that for the entire twelve months of 1904, when 1,022,000 persons died.

CLIMBS ROPE LIKE MONKEY, HANGS BY FEET

The newest thing in Paragon Park's great open air circus is the performance of the West Indian recently from the Paris hippodrome, who does the most astounding things upon a rope stretched vertically to a high pinnacle.

This nameless wonder climbs the rope with hands and toes. He hangs by his feet from the rope, creeps like a monkey, runs up with the agility of a squirrel upon a tree trunk and slides down, rope between his toes, with the speed of an avalanche.

Elephant Plays Umpire.

The baby elephant is also a prime feature at Paragon Park. The other day he was taken to the ball field and given a position behind the catcher, from which he could umpire the game played by the Shoe and Leather men of Boston on their annual outing at Paragon Park.

Almost daily the baby elephant goes to the administration building and has fun in Manager Dodge's office. One morning a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter was talking with the manager when some one sent out for the "baby." He could just get through the door. Seeing Manager Dodge at his desk he lost no time. Into the pigeon holes, the ice pitcher and the drinking glass went his little trunk. There was a good natured struggle between the "baby" and those present for the three cakes of bread, and "baby" gulped them down.

More Coupons Sunday.

Next Sunday's AMERICAN will publish more free coupons for Paragon Park. For next Monday and Tuesday, day and evening, they will include entrance to the park, Theatre Comique, Switzerland and the Beauty Show, worth a total of thirty-five cents.

The open air circus still includes Speedy, who dives 150 feet into thirty-six inches of water; the Norins, who give a remarkable diving exhibition; Chefalo, the bicyclist, who leaps a gap of 50 feet through fire; the band, the sweet child singers, Master and Miss Flynn, and the hundred other free attractions.

HAU RISKS HIS LIFE TO SHIELD REAL GUILTY?

CARLSRUHE, Germany, July 18.—A curious discrepancy in the testimony of witnesses, distinctly favorable to the accused, was the chief feature of the early stages of to-day's hearing in the trial of Carl Hau, on the charge of killing his father-in-law Frau Molitor.

Oberrichter Andree, an expert in the use of firearms, declared that the weapon which caused Frau Molitor's death was discharged within six inches of her body. The manner in which her clothes were singed, he stated, showed the murderer had stood at close to his victim.

Frau Olga Molitor, Hau's sister-in-law, who lived with her mother when the murder occurred, and who testified yesterday the assailant had fired from a distance of several feet, was at once recalled and examined again by Judge Eller. She stuck to her original story. The murderer, she said, was at a distance, and was invisible because of the darkness. After the shooting she was sure she saw Hau running away.

Dr. Lorch of Washington made a good witness for Hau. He testified that she was a companion to Mrs. Hau, and that the couple had always lived happily.

The impression Hau evidently is attempting to create, that he is making a martyr of himself and shielding some other person, even at the risk of conviction, was strengthened to-day by his further refusal to answer questions put by Judge Eller. Each time the question was asked Hau intimated that he might have intended to shoot at Hau and hit the mother by mistake. He refused to answer.

Never once has Hau broken down since the trial began. That was late yesterday, when Judge Eller read an extract from Hau's will providing that her daughter should take another name.

COMPRESSED AIR JOKE KILLS MAN

CORBIN, Ky., July 18.—By way of a joke two employes of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad yesterday inflated John Ballard with compressed air and were startled when he died. Ballard was grinding a valve when the two men forced an air hose into his mouth and turned on ninety pounds pressure. The jokers summoned a physician, but he was unable to save Ballard's life.

PROFESSOR HEILPRIN DIES IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, July 18.—Professor Angelo Heilprin, a lecturer on physical geography at the Sheffield Scientific School at Yale University and a scientist of note, is dead at the home of his sister, Mrs. Adolph Hofman, No. 210 West 130th street. Although his death was due to heart failure, typhoid fever, which he contracted in South America some years ago, was a contributing cause. The funeral will be held at the home of Mrs. Loveman to-morrow.

DIVORCE WILL END ROMANCE OF DUKE CYRIL

Wedded Despite Czar to Princess Victoria, Herself Divorcee, Marriage Unhappy.

BRIDE WON BY HEROISM

Special Cable to Sunday American.

BERLIN, July 18.—The wonderful love romance of the Grand Duke Cyril, eldest son of Grand Duke Vladimir of Russia, and his bride is apparently short-lived. They were married less than two years ago in a perfect whirlwind of romance, and now there is gossip at the court of Saxe-Coburg that the two are to be divorced.

Moreover, it is said, the divorce suit is but the culmination of a series of quarrels which began almost on the wedding day, and that the two, instead of living in a state of perpetual cooing, have passed the time in continual bickering.

The Duchess, who was the Princess Victoria Melita of Hesse, had a habit of marrying her first cousins. Her former husband is the Grand Duke of Hesse, son of her father's sister and her present husband is the son of her mother's brother. She is the daughter of the late Duke Alfred of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, son of Queen Victoria of England, and Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, whose brother, Grand Duke Vladimir, is father to Cyril.

It was Queen Victoria who brought about the match between her and the Grand Duke of Hesse, and most unhappy it proved. He was an officer and a student; she a gay, pleasure-loving girl, who cared more for hunting and dancing than for the quiet life of the Darmstadt court. It is said that her handsome cousin Cyril was in love with her before she was divorced, and it is certain he married her as soon as she was divorced.

BRIDE NURSES DYING TURFMAN ON HONEYMOON

Happiness of Mrs. Bell, Former Wife of John E. Madden, Is Short Lived.

BROKER ILL IN EGYPT

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 18.—After divorcing John E. Madden, the turf king, to marry his trainer, Mrs. Louis V. Bell's happiness has been shattered by the fatal illness of her second husband while on her honeymoon. The end now seems near at hand, as word from Egypt, according to cable messages sent by Mrs. Bell to Judge Albert S. Berry, of the Campbell county circuit court, who is a close friend of the bride.

Bell, who is also famous as a New York broker, married the divorced wife of Madden in July, 1906. Mr. Bell is more than sixty years of age, but when he left for Europe on his honeymoon with the former Mrs. Madden he appeared in good health. He had expected to make a long wedding trip.

Mr. Madden last April instituted a suit in Cincinnati to relieve himself of the obligation of paying alimony to the woman he had divorced him. "I am tired of supporting another man's wife," he said. Madden had been ordered to pay $250 a month to the present Mrs. Bell.

In defending his wife's suit for divorce he made this statement:

"It was a mistake. I see it now. I should have bought my wife flowers and other presents to hold her love. I gave Mrs. Madden almost everything she asked for on my bank account and buy anything she wanted. I was mistaken. That was not all I should have done. That didn't take the place of buying things and taking them home to her. I thought she had everything she wanted, but I guess it isn't the same."

WOMAN SHOT BY ADMIRER HAS CHANCE FOR LIFE

LOWELL, July 18.—To-day at St. John's Hospital it was stated that Mrs. Mary McBride, the victim of the shooting by John D. Kelley, has an excellent chance of recovery. It was further stated that no more grisly patient had ever been placed in the hospital. A few days ago she and her husband had purchased tickets for a trip to Ireland, and the woman constantly entreated that the tickets must not be cancelled, for she will surely be able to use them.

Kelley was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday on a charge of assault with intent to kill. Almost nonchalantly he tripped out the words, "Not guilty," although but a few hours before he had asked of a court officer, "Do you believe Mary will lose her eye on account of this shooting?"

MOON ECLIPSED, BLAME YANKEE

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Infuriated because they believed that he had taken liberties with the moon, the ignorate in the hills of Northern Luzon, P. I., have frightened J. C. Early, an American school teacher, so badly that he has asked the insular authorities for another assignment.

It appears that the natives became alarmed over an eclipse. As the darkness deepened, the news was spread that the "Dausero Americano" had used his mysterious powers to pull a veil over the moon that had shone on the land of ignorate for eternity as a punishment for some fanciful offence. The natives all gathered in front of the house of the teacher, threatening him until the eclipse was over.

STEAMER TOTAL LOSS.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 18.—The steamer Allegheny reported on fire last night off Tybee Island, is a total loss. Passengers and crew escaped in boats.

HUNT VICTIMS IN MYSTERIOUS AUTO COLLISION

NEW YORK, July 18.—Hospitals all over the city are being searched to-day for four missing victims of a remarkable auto accident as a result of which one man is dead and a second is dying.

The dead man is supposed from letters found in his pockets, to be Thomas B. Emerson of Brooklyn. He expired on the operating table shortly after the accident.

The second gave his name as Chapman Rope of Morristown, N. J. He lapsed into unconsciousness before an account of the crash could be secured from him.

For the other four men the police cannot yet account. As the story is told by the occupants of another auto near the scene of the accident, Donovan and Rope were at the steering wheels of two machines—Rope's a 40-horse power Arrow, Donovan's a Darracq. The Darracq was owned by C. R. Williams, banker. He was not in the wreck.

RED DOLLAR SIGN GIRL TELLS STORY OF CAPTURE

This is the actual experience of The Girl with the Red Dollar Sign at Paragon Park last Sunday, when she paid $50 in gold to the person who first approached her. It was estimated that fully 100,000 persons were at Nantasket, most of whom took part in the search for the $200 of buried treasure hidden by the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

By Girl with Red Dollar Sign

Mr brother and I went to the elevated at the South station. I didn't want to go down on the boat, fearing the people would guess that I was the Red Dollar Sign Girl, because a picture, taken side view, of me had been in the BOSTON AMERICAN.

At the elevated a man with a moustache stared at me so long that I was afraid he might recognize me. So I said to my brother: "Let's hurry along; you know papa expects us back to go automobiling, and we mustn't disappoint him."

So we took the very next train to Dudley street. It was such fun pretending I had an air. I never rode in one in my life. But being the Red Dollar Sign Girl was sort of like being in a play. I thought of all kinds of ways to get by people so they wouldn't recognize me.

We went on the electrics to Nantasket. Just before we got there we got off and walked to the park through a big field. I got through the big gate without being caught. Then I walked around a while, but kept away from the big crowds.

I overheard one man say, "I suspect that girl is the Red Dollar Sign Girl." My heart began to beat rapidly and I slipped through a group of people and got away before they could reach me. After 4 I went off by myself and rested. Just before 7 I mixed with the crowds.

I walked right along the main streets of Paragon. In front of one of the shows a man yelled: "The Red Dollar Sign Girl is right here now."

I walked quietly away. If I had hurried they would have suspected, perhaps. It got to be just like a game. Sometimes I felt like laughing right out when I saw men go up and ask girls if they were the Red Dollar Sign Girls.

Then I saw a clock. It was half-past 5. About five or ten minutes later a thin pale young man came up and said:

"Are you the girl with the Red Dollar Sign? It belongs to me."

I took him to the park office and then a crowd followed us. They pulled my dress and hung on to me. They were disappointed to know I had been so near them all the time.

When we got to the office the crowd pushed so much they broke down a small gate going into the office. Then we got in all right. There the young man answered a lot of questions. He said his name was Matthew J. Slattery, and that he lived in Lynn. He works in the shoe shops and has a wife and three children. They gave him the $50, and I never saw anyone so happy. He was so excited he could hardly talk.

All the way over to the office he kept saying to me: "My, won't I be lucky? I can't believe it. I never had any luck before in my whole life." I told the men I was with that you were the man and they laughed at me and dared me to ask you. As soon as he got his money they went away. I suppose he rushed home with it to his wife. He looked like such a good young man and I was glad he got the money.

When I came out of the office, what do you think? There was an enhanced price on me to-day. They helped me upon it and I had quite a hard time sticking on at first. But I learned to sway with the elephant and balanced after the first minute or two. I rode around quite a while.

After that I went in many of the shows and all the managers were very kind. My brother and I took the last boat home.

Next Sunday I shall be at Wonderland.

EXHUME BODY IN POISON CASE

CLINTON, Ill., July 18.—By the glimmer of dim lanterns and with the utmost secrecy, the body of Mrs. "Pet" Magill was exhumed, the vital organs were removed, sealed in glass jars and placed in the care of Chicago's specialists early to-day. Two days will be required at least before the examination for the arsenic dug on is completed.

Fred Magill reasserts his innocence, declaring the whole matter a conspiracy against him and his girl-wife.

The Kind of Girls Men Like

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX

GIRLS, I want to tell you that when a young man goes a-courting he is not looking for a piano player nor a picture painter nor a pretty, empty-headed doll, nor a pomp-maker.

What he wants is a wife and companion, and if he is at sensible young man he waits until he finds the right girl before he enters into that most important of all partnerships—matrimony.

Don't think for one moment that I underestimate the accomplishments that help to make a girl charming.

They are excellent and should be cultivated as much as possible, but not to the neglect of the good, old-fashioned accomplishments that are absolutely necessary to the making of a comfortable, happy home.

A Good Career

I WANT you to learn to be good housekeepers. Man is a material being and he won't be happy unless he is comfortable.

In the ecstasy of honeymoon days he may not notice that his creature comforts are rather meager, but sooner or later he is bound to awaken to the fact, and then look out for clouds on the domestic horizon.

When you are sighing for a career remember that there is one career open to almost every girl, if she so wills, and it is the best career of all—the career of wife and mother.

Don't close your eyes to a good chance when it comes your way. Don't pass by a fine, earnest young fellow and set yourself on a good-for-nothing ape, merely because he happens good looking and glib of tongue.

It is the man that counts, not his clothes or looks.

Learn Cooking

MOST of you have the example of a good mother before you. Try and learn to be like her.

Be neat and capable and economical. Learn to cook and to give a house a cheerful, homelike look.

When a man is tired, after a hard day's work, he wants to come home to peace, comfort and cheerfulness.

Man must earn the money to support the home, but woman must supply the loving ministry that keeps it going.

Never forget, little friends, that a good, true woman holds the destiny of many souls in her hands.

The life work cut out for you is to be good and sweet, and to reign as the queen of a happy home.

That is the best of all careers, and I trust that you will one and all find it and faithfully fulfil it.

Advice to Anxious Sweethearts

By Beatrice Fairfax

HENNA TEA FOR THE HAIR

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Will you kindly tell me something to use to darken the hair a little? I have read your advice about henna tea and would like for you to repeat your instructions how to use it and how strong to make it. Is it harmful to the hair?

CONSTANT READER.

HENNA tea will not harm the hair. Make the tea by taking an ounce of the leaves to a quart of water and boiling the whole down to a pint. Apply to the roots of the hair with a small brush and then with an ordinary brush distribute through the hair until all is evenly stained. Dry in the sun, if possible. It is better to have some one else do this for you, as it is difficult for you to see when it is evenly stained.

THE GREEN-EYED MONSTER

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young girl and very much in love with a young man about a year my senior; but he seldom pays any attention to me when with other girls. I am very jealous of his attention, and I am fast losing the friendship of my lady friends.

GRATEFUL.

JEALOUSY will never help you in your love affairs. Try hard to learn to control this most undesirable characteristic, dear little girl, or you will suffer a great deal more than you need to.

Do not be always looking for just the same attention that some one else gets. You probably get your share in some different way, and be satisfied with that. Cultivate contentment and a blind eye for irritating trifles.

MUD---ORDINARY, EVERY-DAY MUD---IS THE 1907 SUMMER GIRL'S SECRET OF BEAUTY

"Mud-Larks" Defy Freckles, Tan and Sunburn

These photographs, showing Miss Greta Byron, one of Boston's most confirmed "Mud-Larks," illustrates her method of applying the latest beautifier—mud.

GETTING "near to nature" with a vengeance is one of the thrilling diversions of the Summer girl of 1907.

The happiest of all the happy girls at the beaches is the "mud-lark."

Sunburn and tan are no longer fashionable—no she decrees—and the mysterious disappearance of the "nut-brown maid" is caused by the miracles which may be wrought with mud—plain everyday mud of the muddiest, such as there are tons of in Boston harbor.

It is the Summer girl of New England, devoted to water sports and out-door life generally, who has rediscovered this lost art of the beauty-seekers of olden times and who is beginning openly to herald the fact that mud has absolutely no rival as a cosmetic and that as a protection against the ravages of Old Sol's too ardent glances the mud mask is invulnerable.

Freckles, sunburn, tan and all kinds of skin blemishes disappear under the ministries of mud, so its devotees declare.

Some of these girls who are up with the lark and practically camp on the beach all day emerge from the healing mud bath with only the rose blush of perfect health on their cheeks.

Where a few girls are gathered together at the exclusive shore resorts these "mud-larks" have become quite a much a feature of the Summer life as bathing itself.

The preparation for their daily dip or succession of dips has all the appearance of a rehearsal for a minstrel the show, and after they have donned their "mud masks" it would indeed be a wise mother who could know her own child.

Miss Greta Byron, a Boston girl, of English descent, of the same family of which the great poet belonged, is one of the adepts in the "black art," and is enthusiastic over the joys and marvels of the mud-bath.

She compared her demonstrating to some of her friends the refreshing and up-to-date method of beauty cult.

Here are some of her directions:

"If mud in a minus quantity where you go for your bath, just take some clay dust or earth along in a cold cream jar and with a little water mix it to the consistency of cream, apply to the face, neck and arms for perfect protection while sitting on the beach for your sun bath.

"Don't be afraid to use plenty of it, and you'll find the treatment cool and refreshing, affording a perfect shield against the beauty-destroying rays of the sun."

Here's the Second of Ten Commandments for Summer Girls

By Dorothy Dix

THE second commandment of the Summer girl is this:

Bear in mind that thou art not the only pebble on the beach, and that the Summer hotel is not run for thy exclusive behoof and benefit. So shall the sick and the halt and the sleepless arise and bless thy name.

In this country where the American girl is queen, there is no denying that she gives herself the airs of royalty and assumes its perquisites.

Everybody at home gives way before Maude and Sadie, and when Maude and Sadie go abroad they demand that the populace shall flatten itself out before them, and make their way smooth and pleasant.

A homely girl, particularly if she is poor, feels out after she has gotten a good many hard jolts that there are a few other people with a few rights in the world besides herself, but it literary never occurs to a pretty girl who is the daughter of well-to-do parents that there is anybody whose feelings or comfort or pleasure she ought to consider.

Be Not a Moloch

FOR colossal egotism and adamantine selfishness I'll match her against the world, and nowhere do these qualities come out so strongly as at a Summer resort.

Be not of these feminine Molochs, daughter, before whose live victims are daily offered up. You want to enjoy your Summer holiday, but believe me that you will get more pleasure out of it and more lasting good if you do not enjoy yourself at the expense of other people. Take what is coming to you, but let others have what belongs to them.

Likewise it is the surest and the shortest cut to attracting attention to yourself, for there is no object on earth so rare as a pretty young girl who is also kind and considerate and generous.

Therefore, daughter, be not one of those foolish virgins who, when they come home in the middle of the night from a straw-ride or a boating party, feel that the only way that they can testify to the fun they have had is by whistling it out through a megaphone. Neither join with those who at midnight open up the grand piano and bellow forth rag-time until it has wakened every sick and nervous person in the house.

When you go to your room at night, go softly past the darkened doors, and when within the shelter of your room close the curtains with which you confide to your dearest friends the things that you said to Charlie and Charlie said to you, and that are so numerous that it takes until the wee small hours of the morning to get them all told.

Paeans of Praise

SO shall the humble, downtrodden, middle-aged and elderly people arise and with one voice chant paeans of praise in your honor, and the harassed hotel clerk be saved from those who demand that he shall be changed away from those occupied by that girl with the foghorn voice and perpetual motion tongue.

Likewise also, daughter, that because you are young and pretty and attractive does not give you the inalienable right to monopolize the shadiest end of the hotel veranda for your evening dance. Of course, to your eyes it's an impertinence for an old lady with rheumatism and a pink shawl, and to whom nobody has said a word of love for 30 years, to aspire to the most comfortable place, with the finest view, and so you have no compunction about shoving her out of your claim to the spot of a morning before you have time to fix it on the tilt of her legs; but try waiving your claim to it in her favor now and then.

And the good you will see in her face at the graciousness of a pretty, young girl making way for an old woman will be pay enough for you. It will give you a sensation that you probably never had before in your life. Besides which, daughter, many an uninteresting old lady knitting bedroom slippers has a great eligible son, and though you do not know it, there is nothing a man likes better than his mother's O. K. on a girl, and when he runs in from Saturday to Monday he is sure to single out for particular attention that nice girl that his mother has told him about. I have seen, myself, the rocker in a cozy nook that a girl cast upon the water returned to her in the shape of a husband.

Not the Only Pebble

REMEMBER also, my daughter that you are not the only pebble on the beach or the only girl at a Summer resort. There are others. Several of them. Therefore, do not try to monopolize the few men who are present. Adore all, do not one of those cats who are so afraid that some other girl might get a man away from them that they will scratches could'nt drag them into introducing him to anything in petticoats. If a man prefers you to any other he will stick to you, and if he wants to meet another girl there are several million different ways to do it, and he knows them every one, so you gain nothing by being piggish, and show what sort of a hateful, selfish nature you have got to boot.

A free-trade policy in men brings the biggest returns, besides adding to your glory. Be generous of your chocolate creams and beaux. Pass them around, and you will reap an abundant reward, in the liking of other girls and the respect of the men.

And lastly, daughter, never forget that you are one of a strong and numerous band, and have pity upon the poor Summer girl with whom you live in the world, while you are one of many. Reflect how many times a year

PRETTY GIRL HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Anna T. Cummings, whose hair was caught between rollers of swift running machine.

GIRL SAVED FROM DEATH 'MID ROLLERS

Folding Machine About to Crush Out Anna Cummings' Life When Rescue Came.

HAIR CAUGHT IN MACHINE

Miss Anna T. Cummings, of No. 135 West Seventh street, South Boston, is telling her friends to-day of the marvelous escape she had in the Boston Book Binders' establishment, in Cambridge, when her hair was caught between the rollers of a folding machine.

By Anna T. Cummings.

"Valentine Ryan saved me," she says, "although at the time I didn't know who stopped the machinery. Oh, how close those cruel rollers looked! I was blindfolding, as usual, over the folding machine, when my hair, which I always bind tightly on my head, became loosened and some tresses fell between the rolls.

"In an instant I was drawn toward the rolls. I was powerless. I frantically tried to wrench myself from the rolls, but could not. I knew I shrieked with all my might, for I was terrorized. I was being rapidly dragged head first into the machine. Every inch of the ponderous rollers drew me that much nearer to a horrible death, a death which I could almost see.

"Nearer and nearer the rollers dragged me down. I almost swooned, but kept on crying for help. Suddenly they seemed to slacken. Then they stopped, and I just realized that my life was saved when I swooned and knew nothing at all for a time.

Saved in Nick of Time.

"When I recovered I was told that Valentine Ryan had heard my screams and that he managed to throw off the belt that was driving the folding machine just in time. I was told that another revolution of the rollers would have mangled my body beyond recognition. As it is, aside from my scare, thanks to Mr. Ryan, I escaped without any serious injury."

GALLINGER, FACING DEFEAT, FAVORS MERGER

New Hampshire's Senior Senator Looks to B. & M.-N. H. Combine to Save Him.

REVOLT IS ON INCREASE

CONCORD, N. H., July 17.—United States Senator Jacob H. Gallinger, leader pro tem of the Republican party in New Hampshire, and because of his chairmanship of the Committee on District of Columbia, for many years "Mayor" of Washington, D. C., is strongly in favor of the merger of the Boston & Maine and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroads.

Dr. Gallinger's friends—he is an M. D.—hail his advocacy of the Mellen merger as his chief of life. Dr. Gallinger's opponents—many of them leaders of the old Boston & Maine crowd—say that he has grabbed at the New Haven like a drowning man at a straw.

The Senator is chairman of the Republican State Committee. There has been a growing revolt against his leadership. He had a candidate last fall for the Republican nomination for governor, Charles H. Greenleaf of the Hotel Vendome, Boston, and the Profile in the White Mountains, was the Gallinger candidate.

Managed Floyd Campaign.

The other candidates thought that so long as the senior Senator had a gubernatorial candidate of his own he ought, in all propriety, to have resigned the State committee chairmanship. Dr. Gallinger did not see it that way. He held on, even after Charles M. Floyd of Manchester was nominated, to save the party from Winston Churchill.

How Gallinger "managed" the Floyd campaign is history. For the first time in a quarter of a century the section of a governor was thrown into the Legislature. Floyd had failed of a majority of all the votes cast.

That Gallinger "is serving his last term" has been a popular cry up and down the State ever since the election. Nothing but railroad organization can save him.

DEATH WARNING SENT TO BANKER

MINEOLA, N. Y., July 18.—William D. Llewellyn, cashier of the Jamaica Savings Bank, Fulton and Hardenbrook avenues, received an unsigned letter ordering him to leave the town or he and his family would be murdered. Mr. Llewellyn says he has not an enemy in the world that he knows of. He does not take the letter seriously, but as a precaution for his family notified the police. He goes around heavily armed.

CAN TRACE $275,000 STOLEN BY WALKER

HARTFORD, Conn., July 18.—Treasurer Stanley of the New Britain Savings Bank, reported at the annual meeting yesterday that the bank had been able to trace $275,000 of the $375,000 of securities stolen by the absconding treasurer, W. F. Walker. Although the bank found out where these securities were sold, it will not be able to recover them, as there are in the hands of innocent purchasers and Walker had authority to negotiate them. There is no clue to Walker.

TO PACIFY ICELAND.

COPENHAGEN, July 18.—King Frederick of Denmark is soon to make a trip to Iceland to improve the relations between Iceland and the mother country.

SEEKS ME. LABOR STATISTICS.

AUGUSTA, Me., July 18.—Thomas J. Lyons, Commissioner of Labor and Industrial Statistics, is now engaged in compiling statistics in regard to organized labor in Maine.

Washboilers Make Good Drums, Says Anty Drudge.

Bobbie—"See my drum?" (Bang! Bang! Bang!)

Mother—Bobbie, stop that instantly. You'll pound a hole in that washboiler and then how can I wash your dirty clothes?"

Anty Drudge—"Just let him pound it all he wants to. That's all a washboiler is good for. Get some Fels-Naptha soap and you can wash his clothes and all the others easier, quicker and better in cold or lukewarm water, without boiling."

Light summer clothes are more easily damaged than winter fabrics. That is good and sufficient reason why they should be washed with Fels-Naptha in cold or lukewarm water.

In washing with Fels-Naptha there is no boiling or cooking to weaken the delicate fibres, no hard-rubbing to fray them, no injurious chemicals to eat holes in them.

But there are other reasons. It is far easier on the woman who does the washing. There is no hard-rubbing, no blistering fire, no scalding suds to steam the face and redden the hands.

Fels-Naptha soap does its work best in cold or lukewarm water, dissolving the dirt so it can be washed away with a simple rinsing. Sounds easy and comfortable, doesn't it? And it is just as easy and comfortable as it sounds if you use Fels-Naptha the Fels-Naptha way.

Follow the directions on the red and green wrapper.

In Two Days

The most remarkable interview with one of the most remarkable women of modern times will be on all newsstands.

A woman who founded a religious sect, based on radical principles, with a following of many millions throughout the civilized world, and who, at the age of 86, is still hale and hearty and the active head of her church's organization, is indeed a remarkable woman.

She has for years, through her assistants, so persistently denied herself to interviewers that many people have come to believe that she is either dead or in her dotage, and that the affairs of her church are in the hands of a clique.

So strong has grown this belief that certain "next friends" and relatives of this remarkable woman are trying to have her undergo an examination as to her ability to conduct her business affairs—that is, if she still lives.

Now all this doubt as to whether Mrs. Eddy, the founder of Christian Science, is dead or alive, or in her dotage or still mentally active, is finally dispelled.

One of the editors of the Cosmopolitan has interviewed Mrs. Eddy. He has succeeded where hundreds have failed, and has spent several hours in talk with, and in observation of, this remarkable eighty-six-year-old woman.

August Cosmopolitan contains that remarkable interview with Mrs. Eddy—one that will give the reader a clear, strong, mental picture of not only her appearance and the apparent condition of her health, but also of her personality and her surroundings at Pleasant View, Concord, New Hampshire.

This interview with Mrs. Eddy is written in a plain straightforward, unbiased manner by one who is not a Christian Scientist.

* * * * * * *

Another feature in August Cosmopolitan which is, indeed, almost as remarkable as the interview with Mrs. Eddy, is John D. Rockefeller's highly interesting opinion upon "Opportunity in America" for the young man of to-day.

Mr. Rockefeller tells in this article of his money-making career, how success finally came, and where far more and greater opportunities are waiting for young men to-day than ever before.

Tell your newsdealer to set a copy of August Cosmopolitan aside for you, for already there is a large demand for that issue, because everybody wants to read the very remarkable interview with Mrs. Eddy and Mr. Rockefeller's equally remarkable opinion on "Opportunity in America."

Umpire—Johnstone.

Will they or won't they? That's the little baseball problem up at the South End grounds this afternoon when the Doves and the Cubs meet in the third and last ball fest of three games and Doves have yet to feet how it seems to beat championship timber.

Two games already played and won would be sufficient to make the Doves as even money proposition today with the possibility of breaking away from the tough luck that has been pursuing them during the series with the Cubs.

The Cubs did not get away the last time they were here without a reverse and it will be disappointing to the fans if they are allowed to depart with a clean percentage of wins. A team could not be harshly dealt with which has played the Cubs to a standstill in two games, but reflecting on these couple of contests it will only mean similar playing and things breaking better to make the Cubs take the count in the windup.

Another good thing to figure on is the appearance of Pat Flaherty on the slab. He dished the Cubs once before in the Hub and Chance's men have as much respect if not more for Pat's clever twirling than any other curtier on the roster.

For the Cubs it is likely to be Chick Fraser, who always likes to have a shy at his old pals before his team gets away. He had a narrow escape on his last visit but may not be so successful again.

Yesterday's game, which the Cubs got by a score of 8 to 2, was more or less of a gift, as Gus Dorner, after pitching a magnificent game, gave a couple of passes, bit a man in the back which sealed things, as two runs were scored and this brace of runs decided the result.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Still one more chance at the Cubs.

That was an unlucky lack of control Dorner had in the eighth.

The Cubs couldn't hit him, getting six hits distributed one each in six innings.

A more disturbed lot of players never the Hub.

LANKY BOB JOINS THE QUINCE CLUB; "LIL ARTIE" WINS BOUT IN THE SECOND

FITZ CRIPPLED PROVES EASY FOR JOHNSON

JACK JOHNSON, CONQUEROR OF FITZSIMMONS

PHILADELPHIA, July 18.—Bob Fitzsimmons, the grand old man of the pugilistic ring, with his right arm crippled so badly that he could hardly use it, was knocked out in the second round of the bout with Arthur Johnson, popularly known as Jack Johnson of California, the negro heavyweight champion of the world, at the Washington Sporting Club, last night.

After being considered one of the "has beens" for the past five years, Fitzsimmons gathered up his nerve and attempted to demonstrate that there was one more fight in him. But he was mistaken. The old man of 45 was no match for the finished athlete of 29. Fitz went down a victim to his own ambition.

How Bob Got Injured.

Before the fight started, everyone knew of the injury to Lanky Bob's arm. He got it while swinging on a punching bag at his home in Seattle, last Monday, and underwent two operations since that time. He was game, however, and insisted that he would fight and not disappoint the crowd.

"I have injured my right arm," said Fitzsimmons before he faced Johnson, "but I guess it is still good and I am willing to take a chance with it."

The 4,000 spectators applauded him, but they knew that they would not see a real fight. Many, in fact, said that the old man was going to use the experience he had gained on the stage and go through the movements. This assertion was heard everywhere after the bout was over. Of course all the sympathy was for Fitz and the crowd would have robbed Johnson of the credit if they could. Many declared that Johnson wrestled in the second round and threw him so hard as to close him. But Johnson had given him a blow that would have felled many another man, and it was wonderful to see Fitz get up again.

He arose and walked over to Johnson, who rushed at him and sent a short right, starting at his belt, straight to Fitz's jaw. Fitz went down, and Referee McCarney, shoved Johnson away as he counted.

"Five, six, seven," shouted McCarney and Fitz looked around and nodded his way. He stared up at McCarney as the referee yelled eight, and pulled himself to his feet at "nine." As Bob's two hands rested on the floor, McCarney yelled "ten" and Fitz was up. Johnson again put up his hands, but Fitz only toppled forward, unable to go any further. Tom O'Rourke ran out and helped him to his corner.

Fitz Wouldn't Say Anything.

Fitz was taken out of the ring and would say nothing. His wife was waiting for him, and the old man was pushed to the dressing room and quickly sent away. He had a very sore eye to show when one of Johnson's punches hit. Johnson, when accused of throwing Fitz, said:

"Why should I do anything like that? He was my match, I knew."

Johnson was the first to enter the ring and he received very little applause. Fitz made his appearance about immediately after and as he climbed into the ring, the cheering became very wild.

Cheer after cheer rang out and the old warhorse was given a round of applause that must have done his heart good. On the lower side of his right arm there was a cut about two inches long showing where the surgeon's knife had penetrated when the operation was made. Fitz looked to be a bit flabby, and held his right arm supported on his knee. Fitz looked worried but it was only the excitement of the moment.

Joe Jeanette stepped into the ring and challenged the winner or any heavy man in the world. A number of fighters also took the chance to advertise themselves, including Frankie Neil and Jack Blackburn.

In Johnson's corner were gathered his manager, Fitzpatrick, and his pals, Bill Bob's corner were Tom O'Rourke, Young Corbett and Joe Rogers.

Johnson looked the finished athlete as he stood up just before the bell was called. Every muscle stood out well and he looked ready for any proposition. Tommy Keenan of Philadelphia was the referee. A dispute was settled suddenly and Keenan stepped out of the ring and addressed the crowd. He said:

"Gentlemen, I hear that Fitz has broken his arm, and if he does not object to a postponement, I am done."

With that he walked out of the ring.

Fitz took to the floor. "Gentlemen and friends, in sparring with Joe Jeanette last Monday, Fitz says, he accidentally pressed in toward me and got out of order. I had two operations performed on it and three ounces of blood were taken out. This is the reason I am unable to fight."

Then Billy McCarney, manager of the Quaker City Athletic Club, took the floor. The fight started with both men feinting.

Fight by Rounds.

ROUND ONE.—As they came together they sparred warily for a few seconds, and then Johnson lunged out with his left, landing on the side of Fitz's head. He followed this with two more lefts to the wind and then they fought to a clinch. Johnson then hooked a short left to Fitz's face, and then shot the same hand to the body. Fitz swung his left on Johnson's jaw, his first blow. Johnson again landed with his left to the body and Fitz clinched. Johnson hooked his famous left hard to Johnson's face and Johnson swung his right. Fitz swung with his left but was short, the blow landing on the wind. He followed left on the ear and then sent his left to Fitz's face. Johnson ended the round with his left.

ROUND TWO.—Johnson swung his right hand to Fitz's face as they faced each other, and Fitz let his right go for the clinch that followed. Referee McCarney separated the colored fighter after a rough tactics. They exchanged rights to the body and Johnson swung his right fair to Bob's chin, and the red fighter went down limp. He fell on his back in the corner of his ring, but he fell back lifeless, and the referee saw that Bob had enough to have knocked out so rugged a fighter as Fitzsimmons.

Jack Johnson announced after the fight that he would certain parties put up enough money to let Fitz stay the limit. He would not mention any names, however.

ST. LOUIS, July 18.—This afternoon's game is the last in the series between the Pilgrims and the Browns. The visits was won the first game, after sixteen innings of hard playing, while the locals captured the next two.

George Winter will probably be sent to the firing line against the Browns this afternoon, while Manager McAlear will probably send Jack Powell onto bewilf.

The Browns are very anxious to take today's game from the cripplied Browns, as it will give them the first even break for a series on their Western trip.

The Boston have played improved ball on this trip, despite the fact that they have lost the majority of games. In Detroit they only took one game out of three, but they should have had one of the other contests which went in favor of the Tigers. The Bostons played good ball against the Naps, taking two out of five.

The Pilgrims will next go to Chicago, where they will play four games with the Sox.

The Bostons were beaten yesterday by their former teammate, Bill Dinneen, 4 to 3. Bill was never rated a good sticker, but yesterday his two singles figured largely in the victory of the locals.

Besides his stick work, Dinneen pitched a good steady ball, and held the Bostons safe after the third inning.

George Stone, another player who was once the property of the Boston American Club, was Dineen's chief assistant in regaining a victory against his former city. Young twirled for the Hub team, and he was not at his best, being bothered by the intense heat.

A. A. A. TOURISTS ON THEIR WAY TO CANTON

BY J. C. KERRIGON.

COLUMBUS, O., July 18.—There is every indication that the A. A. A. tourists will to-day enjoy a thorough "roast" and baking. The sun is shining brightly and not a cloud is visible in the heavens. Rain clothing has been placed under the seats of the cars and out of the way, where they will not bump one at times when quick action is demanded.

There is brightness everywhere. The grenches have forgotten their troubles, real or imaginary, and everyone is now crying, "On to Canton." There the local men have arranged a reception and entertainment, which promises to surpass the hospitality extended the tourists by the men of Columbus last night. The stay of the tourists at Canton will be an interesting one. Upon his arrival at that place each tourist will be presented with a badge made from the bronze from the McKinley Monument; but Canton is 150 miles away from here, and the thing is to get there. The running time has been placed at 8 hours 45 minutes, which is the slowest average ever given the tourists.

The roads are said to be poor; indeed, so much so that one could not drive at first as twenty miles an hour.

All the cars got under way between 7 and 8:30 o'clock. Mrs. Cuneo and her Rainier attracting no end of attention, as she always does. The cars look pretty tough, and the tourists look hard as nails, being as bronzed as Indians and looking the picture of health.

The clean score men are ambitious and each determined to maintain their respective records, standing to the very finish. There is one man who started with the tourists who is an experience will fill a book, and he is Johnson, entrant of the Continental runabout. He was struck by a train in Dayton, and after making repair and well on his way here was arrested in Richmond for speeding, and in Richmond he now is, awaiting the disposition of his case, as the authorities have refused to accept bail in his instance.

It is a noticeable fact that of the cars entered in the White Mountain Tour, Premier are the only three makes which have failed to get perfected penalties. They are all traveling along at a nice steady pace and promise to be in a showy position when the tour finishes in New York a week hence.

WAGNER FAR IN FRONT OF NATIONALS' STICKERS

Honus Wagner of the Pirates still keeps in front of the other hitters who are always trying to dethrone him. He fell off in his hitting the past week, losing seven points, but he still leads Magee, the hard-hitting Quaker, by five points. This small lead will not prevent Honus, however, from playing the game, for he is sure to make his title come to keep in front, but is playing for results. Should he do like many another batter who does nothing further the interest of the team, but tries to make his average look large, Wagner would make a runaway race of the lead. Lumley and Steinfeldt are the other .300 hitters. Leach, although hitting timely, fell one short of staying in the .300 class, but he is only three points shy. If he keeps up his hitting like he has done since going to the outfield he will almost lead the league.

Spike Shannon is going along scoring runs, and it will take some tall work to prevent him from leading in this particular line. He has scored sixty-three times in seventy games, getting a run for almost every hit, as he has but two more hits than runs. Alperman of Brooklyn has taken the lead for three-baggers away from Lumley. The Pittsburg boy has hammered out ten triples. Strang has made four home runs, one more than Lumley, Beaumont, Seymour and Gibson. Wagner leads in doubles with eighteen, while Lobert has stolen twenty-five bases. The complete record of all players who have taken part in fifteen or more games up to Friday follows:

COPS AND FIRE FIGHTERS TO SWIM FOR TROPHY

In the long-distance swimming race for the C. F. King trophy, which will take place on Monday, July 29, the fire department and police department of Boston will be represented. Already Engineer Fred J. Young, of Engine 3, Harrison avenue and Bristol street, and who lives at 19 Wayland street, Dorchester, has entered. Young is a very clever waterman, and while he has never engaged in competitive swimming, his performances in the water certainly entitle him to the right to contest with any swimmer, especially in an endurance trial.

As a boy Mr. Young was a very capable swimmer, and could easily distance any of his companions in their daily swim in the waters of the South Bay. For a number of years he was one of the "regulars" at Crescent Beach, Revere, swimming from Captain Simpson's bath-house. He was the only one now who indulged in outside swimming. The water was never too cold for Young, and he could be seen any morning from one to five miles every time he visited the beach.

There are several promising candidates for the race from the police department, prominent among them being Patrolman Howell of the Fargo Street Station. Howell is said to be a veritable waterdog, and his brother officers at station 4 are urging upon him to enter the contest. He states that if in fairly good condition he will be on hand when the swim takes place, he will enter.

Another member of the same police station, who two years ago swam from Savin Hill Beach to Long Island, is also being urged upon to enter for the C. F. King trophy. Dolphant is in very good condition, however, and may not consent. He started in yesterday to shape himself up for the event, and his entry depends upon the progress he will make physically between now and the date set for the endurance trial.

The friends of Patrolman Flynn, formerly of Station 1, and at present assigned to duty at the Board of Health office, who swims home nightly and with good speed, is one of the possibilities of the Old Home Week swimming race. Nothing but his modesty will prevent Patrolman Flynn from trying his skill and strength with the great field of natators already entered.

BOXERS FEAR SULLIVAN BOYS

Jack Twin Sullivan, who has posted a forfeit with the BOSTON AMERICAN for a match with Tommy Burns and a big purse, is willing to meet any of the lightweight championship if Burns fails to accept of his offer.

Twin bares no white man except Jeffries and has won all his battles by knockout chances or will agree to meet Gunner Moir, the English heavyweight champion and agree to stop him in twenty rounds.

Mike Twin, who has learned all the best points, wants a crack at Joe Thomas at any weight, and if he defeats Thomas he will take on Joe Gans if the colored man wants a fight.

RACE TO DECIDE BIKE CHAMP AT REVERE

The final race for the BOSTON AMERICAN Diamond medal for the motor paced bike championship will take place at the Revere track on Saturday night over a thirty mile event in on the card and the riders will be Bobby Walthour, Hugh MacLean and Jimmy Moran.

This trio composes the speed kings of America in the motor chasing game and there will be little quarreling the right of the winner to claim his laurels.

MacLean holds two wins on the trophy and the Chelsea rider will make a big effort to take this race and the medal.

It will probably be Walthour's last appearance in America for some time, as he is scheduled to be touring and fulfil his contract there.

It is up to Walthour to capture this event before sailing, as it means his discarding as the best rider in this country if he fails to turn the trick. He has improved greatly since his first riding last month when he just landed and is now going as well as any time in his career.

But MacLean is also going at top form and it has always been the ambition of the local boy to defeat Walthour decisively and this is his chance.

Jimmy Moran cannot be counted out of the reckoning as the milkman is always strongest when his foes drive him to do his best, and the distance is more suitable to him than a shorter route.

NELSON AFRAID, GANS' MANAGER DECLARES

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—"I'll give Billy Nolan or Battling Nelson, whichever one cares to accept, a purse of $2,500 the minute Nelson puts his foot in a ring with Joe Gans."

This statement was made last night by Ben Selig, representative of the light weight champion. Ben resumed: "And I won't ask a cent of training expenses. Nelson will not get a fight Gans, winner pounds to strip at the weighing in. These are the only certain parties I will entertain. Nelson's manager can hedge behind his probability of the weighing in being held in fighting togs, but that is only a subterfuge, and there is not a man acquainted with the game who is not on to him. He is afraid to let Nelson fight Gans again."

WILL OBSERVE ST. VINCENT'S DAY TOMORROW

Catholics All Over the World Will Join in Celebrating the Feast.

TO HOLD SPECIAL SERVICES

Catholics all over the world will observe to-morrow the feast of St. Vincent de Paul, "the apostle of charity." In many countries parades will be held in his honor.

St. Vincent de Paul was born in the village of Poui, near Acqs in Gascony, a small distance from the Pyrenean Mountains, on July 11th, 1576. He was educated in the University of Toulouse and, after seven years of study, he received the holy orders and of priesthood in 1600.

St. Vincent resolved to follow in the footsteps of St. Paul. He started various charitable institutions in the province of France. This work he carried on till the time of his death. For his humility and Christian charity he was raised to a niche by the authorities of the Catholic Church in Rome.

Do Incalculable Good.

In France the Church started and forwarded an organization known as the Society of St. Vincent de Paul. Membership in the organization made it mandatory on the persons desiring to join it to devote himself on admittance to adhere to the obligation of refusing to divulge the name or names of persons assisted by the society.

Here in Boston every church has a conference of St. Vincent de Paul connected with it, the members of which voluntarily pledge themselves to assist the worthy poor of the parishes. Money, clothing and food are supplied to the needy; orphan children are taken care of and placed in institutions; sick parishioners, who are destitute of means, are taken care of and attended to until such time as they are able to look out for themselves.

On Linden street, Dorchester, there is a large society known as the Vincent de Chanins House. In this house there is a school for girls, where they learn dressmaking, cooking and the household duties, and a club for boys. In addition, there are shorthand and typewriting classes, also a nursery where mothers who go out working during the day can leave their children.

Will Hold Special Service.

St. Vincent's day is considered one of the principal feast days of the year in the Catholic church. At all the masses on Sunday last announcements were made to the parishioners to observe it in a special manner.

In St. Vincent's Church, South Boston, the day will be celebrated on an elaborate scale. A solemn high mass will be celebrated. The music will be rendered by an augmented choir.

At the Immaculate Conception Church on Harrison avenue there will be a mass in honor the feast of St. Vincent by holding services morning, noon and night. The general of the Holy Cross will also hold special services.

APPEAL AGAIN BLOCKS COUNT

NEW YORK, July 18.—The decision of the Justices of the Appellate Division in Brooklyn that the recount law was constitutional was handed out yesterday when the Justices of the New York department of the same court declared it unconstitutional and threw the burden of final decision upon the Court of Appeals.

The Appellate Division sitting in New York denied the writ of prohibition by which "Mayor" McClellan hoped to tie up the investigation of the ballots of 1905. Despite the emphatic protests of Clarence J. Shearn, who represented William Randolph Hearst, they did grant a stay of proceedings pending an appeal to Albany.

This means that the recount will be held up for practically four months unless the Court of Appeals can be called into an extraordinary session. The court has adjourned until October and the Justices are scattered about the Summer resort districts.

This Gentleman Does Not Love Us

Let Us Try "The Soft Answer"

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

The other day we wrote an editorial advising people not to beat their own children. In a country where we no longer permit grown sailors to be beaten on ships, or huge horses to be beaten in the public streets, our citizens ought to know enough not to beat babies and little children.

However, some disagree with us, even violently. The following letter expresses the other side. So we print it, in spite of the fact that the learned and highly educated writer with the unconsciously humorous signature does not love us as much as we should like to have him.

Sir—In your editorial, "To Make a Brutal Man," you show yourself a more theorist and consummate ass.

Are you in a position to deny (and PROVE as you deny) that the "hoodlums" of whom you speak are not the result of your methods of teaching the young idea how to shoot? You state dogmatically that these were "not pampered or treated too kindly in their childhood." How do you know, pray?

It seems to me the question is whether the system of "an ignorant past," produced as many and as detestable "hodlums" as the school of experimentalists to which you belong is now producing. You have daring enough almost for anything, but surely not to the point of deciding against that "ignorant past."

What about the lack of manners and fine feeling in the human products of which you are so proud? And is sternness incompatible with kindness? Do you make no allowance for the ingrained viciousness of many children and their utter insensibility to any authority and guidance not backed up with the "big stick"? I submit it as a matter of plain common sense to be "kind" to such unfortunates. You dare not, on your peril, begin to bring up your bull terrier as you, in your chopstick baby English, recommend parents to train their children. If you did, before maturity he would rend you.

I think I have never before come across a public writer who betrayed more traces of the venal hack, ready to argue from either side of the house, as you.

Of all things, pray—oh, pray!—don't slobber over America's achievements in the line of rearing and training the young. May you live to be in the awakening—you deserve to.

ADSUM.

It would take too long to answer Mr. Adsum adequately. The learned signature which he adopts with brilliant originality means in Latin, "Present," or "I am here."

Mr. Adsum is not present. He is not here. He is back in the old days, when the education of the young was written by the ill-temper of the father or mother in black and blue marks on the child.

He speaks of "the ingrained viciousness of many children." If they have ingrained viciousness, whence did they get it? Didn't they get it from their fathers or mothers? Is the ingrained viciousness of a father or mother going to be helped by adding a number of vicious beatings?

Is it not the duty of a father and mother who have cursed a child with "ingrained viciousness" to get it out, or modify it, by kindness and decency?

As a matter of fact, there are no children with "ingrained viciousness." Mr. "Adsum," from the foolish past, would know that, if he were really living to-day. Children are born with certain primitive animal instincts, temper, cruelty, etc. These must be overcome by their intellect, encouraged and influenced by other and more highly developed intellects. We do not cure a child's temper or cruelty with MORE temper and cruelty.

Our seventeenth century "Adsum" is weak also in his views on the raising of bull terriers.

A bull terrier, treated kindly from babyhood, WILL NEVER BITE. The bulldog or bull terrier can be MADE vicious by vicious treatment, or kind and gentle by kind treatment. Young children may play with a bulldog that has always been treated kindly. They may pull his tail, his ears, his protruding lip, inflicting considerable pain, yet the good-natured animal, believing in the good intentions of others, will not retaliate. HE WILL NOT BITE.

Treat him harshly, set him to fighting other dogs, arouse his brutality with BRUTALITY OF YOUR OWN, and he is no longer safe. A child would be as unsafe with a bulldog of that kind as it might be with good Mr. Adsum, who believes in the big stick for a child, and might perhaps shiver considerably at the sight of an ill-tempered man of his own size.

Beating children is bad because it hands down brutality; it dulls the intellect of the child, it cows the courage, destroys originality.

It is shameful, because it proves either a dull mind or a cowardly heart on the part of the one that does the beating. A grown man or woman capable of inflicting physical pain or moral anxiety upon a young child is either a dull-minded creature or a brutal, vicious, ill-tempered one.

When Mr. Adsum is engaged in using the strength of his 200-pound body in beating a child that weighs forty pounds, what are his feelings? Does he not despise himself?

He is five times as big as the helpless child imploring his mercy. Suppose that a giant five times the size of Mr. Adsum should seize him by his collar, shake his breath out and say to him, "In half an hour I'll come back and give you a thrashing." Would not Mr. Adsum throw himself on his knees, sobbing, and beg for mercy? Of course he would. He should loathe himself when he beats a helpless child as he would loathe the brutal giant that should thrash him.

As to the past as compared with the present, only a gentleman living in the past, and delighted with a little, limited knowledge about it, could possibly compare the two.

Nothing is clearer than this.

The brutality of the past caused a brutal people, and diminution of brutality in laws and punishment has caused diminution in the brutality of the people.

In the days when they hanged thousands of men for stealing the value of the shilling there were thousands of men that would KILL another for a shilling.

In the days of the rack, thumbscrew and the other charming tortures you had men killing their fathers and their mothers as a daily occurrence—the weak always beaten by the strong.

As governments become more merciful and less brutal the people improve.

As parents become more merciful, enlightened and kind, children improve.

Mr. Adsum must have been thrashed often. It did not cure him of brutality.

We are quite sure that he might have been a different and a better man, no matter how deplorable his ancestry, if in his childhood kindness and gentle intelligence had warred against his natural depravity

"I Am All Right; Look After those Other Fellows."

"I am all right; look after those other fellows."

The saying of Midshipman Cruse, frightfully injured by the blazing gases which filled the Georgia's turret, takes its place by Sir Philip Sidney's, "Thy necessity is greater than mine," as he passed the cup of water to a dying soldier.

Sorrow for the gallant fellows who died so horrible a death fills the nation's heart, but it is the proud sorrow of the mother whose sons have died bravely. With such men to sail her ships the country knows that the spirit of Jones, Decatur, Farragut is still afloat on every wave.

Write It!

By Wex Jones

WHILE the Boss of Sagamore is pitching up the hay,
Loeb is keenly on the job
down at Oyster Bay,
Barring all admittance to the Presidential den,
Unless to visitors he thinks the practical kind of men.
The journey of the worthy but impracticable soul
Is short and sharply halted just outside his long-for goal,
Whatever is his object, Loeb's ready there to blight it,
Which he does by simply saying, "Stay outside and write it."

SO when you may be kicking at the lofty price of beef,
Do not seek in vulgar language an ephemeral relief;
Get your fountain pen and retire into your den
And indite a pleasant letter to the honest packer men.
Say that you are sorry that they can't reduce the price,
And that you think their conduct is not exactly nice;
That you felt inclined before to kick at it and fight it,
But now you, Oyster Baylike, simply take your pen and write it.

AND should your neighbor's bulldog clasp firmly on your arm,
Don't interview the owner with a threat of fearful harm;
Don't call on him in person—'twould be an awful break—
But lug along the bulldog and your faithful pen uptake.
Say, "Dearest Mr. Neighbor, your dog has got me cinched,
So please come here and take him off before I have him pinched."
Try not to mind your mangled arm, just let the doggie bite it,
And do not shout your trouble out, it's better form to write it.

If We Choose, We Can Improve the Mental and Spiritual Just As We Can Arrange the Physical

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

A WOMAN was boasting in my presence of her "strong likes and dislikes." I wonder how many thousand people I have heard use that same expression. It is such a platitude.

"I love and hate with equal intensity," she said.

"If you love in real fulness of heart," I ventured, "you will find no room for hate. Love is like the sunlight, and drives out the darkness of hate."

"Oh, but I never forget an injury," the woman explained, "if you did me a wrong, I would get even with you if it wasn't for ten years. It is my nature."

"A poor use of a good memory," I replied. "I would rather forget my alphabet. Revengeful thoughts carry bad luck on their wings. You are cultivating misfortune."

"But you can't change nature," persisted the woman. "I am like my mother. She never forgot an injury."

"Then I would emulate my father," quoth I, "and forget them."

"But you can't change nature," repeated the woman. "You have to be as you are made."

Spiritual Indolence

WHAT nonsense! It is the cry of the spiritually indolent, the excuse of the mental laggard. But it has no foundation of truth.

Look at Dame Nature's face. How man changes its expression and form. Out of miasmic marshes he creates fertile valleys and blooming gardens. Rocky and unsightly hills are transformed into artistic sites for splendid cities. Tangled forests are turned into beautiful parks, and the courses of great rivers are changed for the purposes of commerce.

Human nature is just as susceptible to improvement, if we are willing to go about the task with the same determined will.

Weeds versus Flowers

OVER and over, the gardener who prepares a piece of stony ground for vegetation or a waste place for flowers is obliged to pluck away rocks and weeds. Over and over he hoes, and harrows, and fertilizes the soil, until it becomes what he requires. Even after the seeds or flowers spring into sight the weeds attempt to choke their progress. But the eye of the gardener is quick to see the mischievous intruders, and his hand and hoe are quick to remove them.

Unlike the gardener, we are prone to call our heart weeds by flowery names and to ignore their viciousness.

Jealousy Not a Virtue

THIS woman of whom I speak believed her revengeful nature to be a virtue. She gloried in it. So many of us call our petty jealousy "an excess of love," our ill-tempers "an evidence of spirit," and our envy of another's good fortune "a high sense of justice." And we cultivate and prune these ugly and sightly weeds, instead of pulling them up by the roots.

We straighten crooked limbs, we correct uneven teeth, we remove blemishes from the cuticle. Why not those of us who are heart and soul? Pray for strength and insight; reason on the folly of allowing unworthy qualities to mar your character; sustain your efforts by worthy pride, and assist the divine nature within you to be what you desire.

Do not say we cannot change nature. "We will do what we will be."

The true way to be deceived is to think oneself more knowing than others.
LA ROCHEFOUCAULD.

Little Editorials from the People

WANTS L STREET BATH MADE FREE

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

As I think the AMERICAN is the best paper to publish the wrongs of the public of Boston, and because as a citizen of Boston I think all should receive equal treatment at the hands of the servants of Boston, I write to complain of the discrimination shown at the public bathhouse on L street, South Boston.

On entering the bathhouse I saw two large signs to the effect that no keys to lockers were given till a deposit of fifteen cents was made, which would be returned to the bather on receipt of the key. That rule, the superintendent told me, was to prevent keys being taken by careless bathers. Now suppose men come to baths in this "free" public bath may not have the fifteen cents necessary to procure a key. They could leave their hat or coat as deposit, the superintendent told me. Now, what man will stand the humiliation of waiting to a long line for a key, and when he comes to the desk remove his hat or coat for security for a key.

Surely some system can be devised to prevent keys being taken. The same bath has been run for years without the deposit system, so for the benefit of the public, whose bath it is, I protest.

Asking that you will not publish the writer's name, I sign myself,

"BATHER."

South Boston.
